Nihil utilius aut honorificentius medico accidere potest quam ut de quocunque casu proposito certa facilitate disserat, et inde ab omnibus astantibus laudandusque sit. Quo factum est ut necesse mihi visum sit explicando huiusmodi methodum intelligere qua possis de quocunque casu facilius et cum doctrina ac facundia disserere.

Casus qui occurrunt apud medicos consultandi sunt, aut sunt morbi aut symptomata morbis coniuncta. Dixi de morbos, quoniam quis nullus sit morbus qui aliquo modo non inferat actiones ipsas attamen non unquam morbus ita laedit actiones ut dicatur morbus simpliciter et cum coniuncta sint aliqua symptomata. Dixi autem occurrere symptomata morbis coniuncta, quia id plerumque fit ut patientes conquerantur de symptomatibus tantum, quae cum vere a morbis ipsis prodeant ipse et symptomate necessario morbis est coniunctus. Si morbus occurrat cui non coniungatur symptoma ad se habens eundem ut recte solum prodeat quid sit a nobis exponenda. Primo intelligenda est totius morbi essentia, deinde illius et proponenda apud quos est consultandum. Cognita morbi essentia succedit, ut ex indicationibus auxilium inveniatur, auxilium inventis adferendum est prognosticum. Quo omnia cum inveniendis sunt auxilio cum propositorum more ex similibus causis desumptis. Quo ad primum ad morbi essentiam tria tantum erunt semper medico consideranda, genus quo primum morbi subiectum cui adhaeret, et causa efficiens immediata, sive mediata a qua malis efficiatur. De genere morbi considerare accidit ut fiat dispositio. Nam non erit valde difficile agnoscere an morbi propositi gignatur sub genere intemperamentorum an sub aliqua, et sub malae compositionis, et solutae unitatis necessario conflatum dicitur morbus. Sub aliquo non hoc tantum genere ut in considerando tum sive unus sit morbus sive plures debes omnes connumerare et sub species specialissimas ponere. Inventa hac specie quae investiganda sit tum sive locus affectus. Et hoc vide nam complures medici aut statim ad eius investigandas accedunt aut si de loco affecto dicant, non recte distinguunt hos locos. Exempli gratia complures quando sic respiciunt in hypocondrijs sonitus aut mugitus, quod sit indicia flatus retenti sufficiunt dicere hypocondria esse loca affecta. Sed tunc est complures signis distinguere an in flatus et aqua contineatur in intestinis an in mesenterio, an in omento, an in musculis diligentissime loci affecti sunt distinguendi. Cognito loco ad investigandam causam immediatam est accedendum. Quae causa immediata facilime a vo[bis] comparari potuit si librum Galeni perlegas, qui de morborum causis inscribitur libro 2. invenies eius omnes proximas et remotas omnium morborum quod sit 2a gratia. Hactenus intellexisti modum discurrendi quando complures sint morbis occurrentibus de quibus est dicendum. Quod si de symptomate quis loqui velles, antequam loquaris considerare debes, num quod symptoma unicum sit an plura, si sit unicum considerandum est an sit primi an secundi generis. Primi generis symptomata sunt actiones lesae. Secundi generis sunt qualitates mutatae et excreta mutata. Ubi secundi generis sit symptoma quod statim intelliges sub quo primo genere contineatur, an sub aliqua ex qualitatibus mutatis an sub excretis. In hoc casu non est quod locum affectum quaeras, sed solum huiusmodi symptoma statim reducas ad primum genus. Nam omnis qualitas et excretum mutatum sequitur necessario actio-nem lesam tamquam causam immediatam, ubi redegeris hoc secundi generis symptoma in primum investiganda est causa immediata huius lesae actionis Hanc causam immediatam audio omnes vocari aut eiusdem facultatis aut externum errorem sed ut ingenue fatear ad [illegible] aliquem patientem audire ad splendores ut sunt colorem, quod eius videtur ob exteriorem errorem non sit laesa. Et ratio est, quia facultatis virtutis non erit nisi patiens sit intemperans. In signis autem laesio videtur aut sit laesa non facultate aut simul laesa facultate et ob exteriorem errorem. Sed circa hoc aliud est quod volumus ex parte laesionum facultatis et laesionum ex parte erroris exterioris et aliorum, dum quo videtur [illegible] quem non intus et speciem ut aliter vocant exteriorem errorem. Est autem hic modus laesio non facultatis visibilis sed facultatis influentis. Quam rem ut intelligas sciendum est videri quae videntur aut esse visibiles quae ad videndum conferunt eadem faciunt aut altas et vitales. Si sunt visibiles quae videntur semper aut laedunt ob laesionem facultatis visibilis aut ob exteriorem errorem. Si autem sunt videntur altae aut vitales laedunt laesa facultate visiva quae non qua sit vitio ut laedit vasis laesio crystallino aut laedit laesa facultas voluntate influente, ut laedit visio ob lapsionem spirituum [illegible] in oculum. Et eadem ratio est alia virtute sensitiva et motiva laedit ob laesionem facultatis visivae, et ad laesionem influentis, et sic eadem [illegible] de loco affecto: dicit neque laedi videtur, loquitur autem ibi de [illegible] facultates respiciens scilicet quia hanc laesionem facultatis influentis non nulli vocant exteriorem errorem, vel in hoc non animadvertere. Exterior errorem neque esse subiectum facultatis sed obiectum facultatis. Exterior obiectum videtur ventriculi et cibus est obiectum facultatis sanguinis

... sed tamen. Ergo a. [illegible] quae pertinent ad partes ut sunt spiritus [illegible] non est obiectum [illegible] partium sed est subiectum facultatis [illegible] ut partes ipsae sunt obiectum facultatis patientis. Veniemus igitur in spiritum non est vitium exterioris erroris. Praeterea [illegible] repetam

CURATIO MORBORUM MALAE

Temperaturae absque materia.

Morborum malae temperaturae absque materia non est una atque eadem species, sed alii sunt simplices, alii compositi. Simplices Cal. F. S. et H. Compositi Cal. et H. F. et S. Commune autem utrisque morbis in hoc est, quod praeter naturam est quod sit affectus, quemque praeter naturam tamquam antecedens quodam in ipsius consequens destinatum apparet, esse removendum videtur. Et autem affectus sunt removendi per contraria. Atque haec prima est indicatio. Cum autem quantitas horum ambobus fiat per alterationem in hoc antecedente consequens destinatum apparet removendas esse alterando ad contrarium, atque corpora in naturalem habitum alterari consuevimus aut per habitudinem [illegible] [illegible]. Altera est [illegible] alterationem a qualitate ipsius in hoc antecedente consequenti designatum apparet [illegible] morbos priores [illegible] [illegible] suscepta, posteriores vero alterationi [illegible] ipsius atque haec indicatio cum [illegible] artificiosa. De posteriori [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] de [illegible] nunc non agam [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] V. 5. et [illegible] et aliorum quae nondum tradita sunt. Exordiemur autem a morbis siccis cum quod omnium curatio sit difficilior, tum et quae in his [illegible]. Curationis modus [illegible] quodam [illegible] [illegible] ad curandum, et in quo curando semper [illegible] est humectanda. Tractatio Febrium quam hoc anno declaraturus sum, multis de causis a modico futuro expectari [illegible]. Inprimis quod ad eximiam medici [illegible] pertinet rationem [illegible] curandi omnes morbos, potissimum vero febr. Cum maior medicinae pars in earum cognitione sit collocata. Deinde vero quia febris illa est morbus, qui non unam tantum partem corporis sed universum [illegible] graviter occupat & molestat, accedit [illegible] morbi magnitudo quae maiorem [illegible] [illegible]. Febris enim non solum magnus morbus dici potest quia totum occupat, verum etiam quia quodam fonte totius vitae potissimum detinere videtur. Huc accedit frequentissima febr. [illegible]. Nam inter tot morbos quibus [illegible] assiduo subiicitur nullus certe [illegible] a quo & saepius et [illegible] affligatur, quam a febre quae solet saepe [illegible] invadere & certum mihi [illegible] in pluribus [illegible]. Postremo in hac febrium tractatione [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] ab aliis hactenus non [illegible] [illegible], quae libenter in medium afferam ut saltem vobis praebeam occasionem veritatis indagandi. Quanta vero sit futura utilitas huius tractationis [illegible] [illegible] spectum [illegible] ut pluribus non egeat. Cum itaque in medica arte nulla [illegible] utilior quam nihil magis [illegible] tractatio atque haec ipsa de febribus, iure vos omnes hortamur ut omni studio huic cognitioni incumbatis, & quantum ad me, conabor summa huius tractationis ea vobis patefacere ut nihil possit ultra desiderari, quod ut ad cognitionem ut integram curationem attineat, quod me assecuturum facile spero, si [illegible] [illegible] & [illegible] futuro medico [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] si et ea facilitate & brevitate docendi utar, quae ad scientiam comparanda facit & maxime conducat. Quantum ad ordinem talem servabo, qualis ad docendum aptissimus a Gal. indicatur, ordo scilicet compositivus, quo [illegible] auspicabimur a simplicioribus & [illegible] et progrediemur ad composita & affectus, propterea initium huius tractationis erit [illegible] spirari ab essentia febr. in genere, [illegible] & sub hac latitudine omnes species febris continet, putridas scilicet [illegible] & hecticas. Deinde a supremo hoc genere descendam ad subalterna & ab his ad species specialissimas [illegible]. quae prout varia sunt ita vario modo illi inserviunt. Quaedam namque inserviunt ut agentia principalia, ut sunt ipsi spiritus. Nihil autem est quod magis vegetat animam ad operandum quam praesentia spirituum, quia in illis sola residet et intercedit rerum ubique operativum. Alia vero ut minus principalia inserviunt quorum quaedam immediate concurrunt ad vitam ut similares, quae me-rito temperaturae concurrunt, quia in temperatura una cum spiri-tu anima operationes vitales exercet. Quaedam mediate concurrunt ut organicae partes et humores cordis. Quarum quaedam adiuvant partes similares et temperaturam cordis, et organicae partes istae in altum motu suo pulsatili adiuvant partes similares, ut per suam temperaturam assiduo generat vitales spiritus: quaedam concur-runt ut ea sine quibus non, cuiusmodi sunt humores cordis sine liter dispositum secundum humores quoties illi talem habue-rint consistentiam, quantitatem, temperiem et locum prout exigit radicale humidum cordis, quod conservatur a dictis humoribus. Postremo erit naturaliter dispositum cor penes spiri-

Prima particula quae occurrebat explicanda circa febrem definitionem erat, de calore: Febris dicebat Avicenna est calor extraneus, circa quam partem diligenter explicare oportet, quo triplex sit hic calor, Cuius ille sit, qui febrem faciat, quae sint illius munera dona et ef-ficia in summo corpore. Calor igitur duplex est. Alter substantialis alter accidentalis. Substantialis ut in sua propria natura et essentia consideratur ut ut mundo alterari mixtoque omnibus associatur.
Utriusque caloris sive in se consideratur sive coniunctim cum mixto, una et eadem est essentia, eadem est proprietas.
Attamen [illegible] utriusque varius est, ita ut si differunt dicant ab extrinseco ut ex subiecti [illegible], in quibus calor recipitur. Ab hoc in subiecto et materia hac in qua calor iste suscipitur limitatur ad determinatas operationes. Calor vero in sua natura consideratus est nudus ad quascumque operationes quia non est ligatus in aliquo certo subiecto, in aliqua certa materia. Sed absolutus absolute ut operatur. Itaque hoc caloris substantialis essentia declaranda est, quia ab hoc potissimum calores omnes operationes primo pendent. Calor itaque iste simpliciter et in sua natura consideratus non potest esse copulatus corpori: sed in se nil aliud est quam corpus simplex, aethereum, inseparabile mundi anima quod principalis est sedes vehiculumque et instrumentum ad operandum. Hic calor dicitur corpus ut distinguatur ab anima. Simplex autem ut distinguatur a corpore mixto, aethereum ad differentiam corporis simplicis elementaris. Nam hic calor in se consideratus supra elementa existit, caretque omni contrarietate atque proinde corruptione ut inquit Aristoteles 2 de generatione A. c. 3. dicit quod hic calor non est elementi igneus quia si esset elementum [illegible] vigeret eo igni At igneus non non est quia ignis nullum animal generat, at in hoc ca-loris omnia generantur, non quod est vitalis calor. Hic calor dicitur ut generatus et inseparabilis a mundi anima ad differentiam caloris accidentalis qui advenit et hoc et toti mundo est a-d connatus, atque hoc caloris officium est, ut sit sedes et instrumentum animae ad operandum [illegible]. Dicimus de hoc calore nato dicenda sunt de calore in herbis qui est [illegible] mundus animae ^ime vigorantem totius mundi. Hic enim caloris suus spiritus praesentia mundi omnia ubique se diffundit, omnia perficit omnia vivificat, ut nulla prorsus sit mundi particula quae huius caloris favore vel non subsistat quemadmodum sunt elementa et mixta omnia inanimata, vel non vivant veluti plantae et herbae omnes, vel non sentiant ut animalia quaeque, vel non intelligant veluti homo. Tanta enim est eius vel foecunditas et amplitudo, ut calor iste ubique penetret omnia et communicetur quamvis his quidem clarius his vero obscurius pro eorum varia capacitate. Quod cum ita sit sequitur unumquemque in hoc calore latere rerum omnium semina, quoniam huius praesentia et participatione omnes mundi partes habent substantiam vitam et itaque omnes opera exer-cent. Is enim calor cuius origo a caelo est cum primum per elementarias sphaeras omnes in hoc mundo inferiori communicatur ut varia mixta producat, elementorum magnas contrarietates in primis conciliat, quandamque sibi multiplicem praeparat, ut ex hac multiplici et tam varia elementorum praeparatione re-rum omnium semina quae in suo sinu continet possit foras ex-plicare et manifestare in omnibus mixtis, quae mixta rerum vi et facultate assidue generantur et propagantur, et varietate eorum non solum varia opera exerceret: sed varia nomina suscipit, Unde cum primum elementis associatur a bi-lis nomen sumens elementaris vocatur et a dictis elementis limitatur actio ipsius ut solum in igne calefaciat, rare-faciat et attenuet et reliqua praestet in aere humectet.

Cum vero paulo inferius descendit ab elementis usque ad mi-xta, tunc et mixta sunt quorum habent ex elementorum mixtione coniunctionemque ex primarum qualitatum contrarietatum et conciliatione unde oritur in quolibet mixto complexio sua quae complexio in illo mixto calorem substantificum limi-tat ad proprias operationes exercendas, Ideo tunc hic calor qui substantificus per elementorum miscellam mixtum efficit, a mixto denominationem recipiens vocatur calor com-plexionalis mixti ad differentiam caloris elementaris, in cuius caloris complexionalis calor substantificus et caelestis deinde innatus et limitatur ad operationes illas exercendas quae secundum mixti exigentiam, in illo mixto exprimuntur, Unde

qum sit merito mixtorum inanimatorum duplex oritur operatio.
Altera procedit a calore elementari, a complexione, rerum cum ca-loris et mixtum dicitur vel calefacere vel frigefacere vel humectare vel exsiccare. Sunt istae operationes caloris alterativi, simi-liter aperire, obstruere, densare sunt secundae operationes eiusdem caloris complexionalis. Mixtum n. quod calefacit et exsiccat, frigefaciens exsiccat et densat. Quare istae operationes sunt mixti operationes consequentes a calore alterativo, suntque manifestae.
Altera vero operatio mixti procedit a calore substantifico et coe-lesti sed limitato in ipso mixto a complexionali calore illius mixti et istae operationes ipsius mixti sunt illae quae occultae vocantur, specifica dicuntur procedere a tota substantia mixti h. e. ab agente principali et a calore coelesti, sed limitato ab a-gente instrumentali a calore complexionali. Ut res Rhabarb. non solum erit calid. sed purgativum cholerae et calefaciet procedit a calore alterativo et complexionali huius mixti, purgare vero determinate ~~humores~~ humores procedit a tota substantia mixti et a calore substantifico sed limi-tato a calore complexionali huius mixti. Sic dicetur — + de Agarico et Helleboro. His autem viribus et qualitatibus mixti inserviunt primae qualitates adiuvando secundum istas occultas actiones, unde ~~…~~ in Rhabarbaro adiuvat purgandi vim.
Hic item calor coelestis recipitur in ea elementorum mixtione, res quae oritur complexio aptior ad nobiliorem formam recipiendam non solum illi mixto praebebit subsistentiam sed praebebit etiam vitam, unde oriuntur omnia plantarum genera a quibus hic calor denominationem suscipiens vocabi-tur plantalis seu vegetabilis. Ulterius descendentes si adhuc ab eodem calore substantifico paulo constantiore elementorum miscello et consequenter complexio fiat temperatior, res hoc constantioris mixtionis fiunt mixtum praeparatum ad su-sceptionem formae adhuc constantioris, ut contingit in genere animalium ~~mixtum~~ quae non solum subsistunt vi huius caloris sicut insecta … et non solum vivunt vi huius caloris sicut plantae sed ob + excellentiorem mixtionem praeparatam et complexionem et vivunt et praeterea sentiunt et moventur sunt procedit. Tantum si ab eodem calore adhuc constantius natum ulterius miscerentur ita ut ex aequalitate qualitatum actione et passione oriatur ad-huc co-huiusce complexio perfectior erit, complexio instrumentum perfectioris formae, ut opera huius calor efficiat ~~[illegible]~~ huiusmodi quae non solum subsistit in hoc caloris in solum vivit ut sentit et movetur, sed ob excellentiorem gradum mixtionis excellentiorem formam obtineat, itemque excellentiores operationes exercebit, nempe intellectum et rationem, hoc est quod Aver* roes scribit in cap. de complexionibus. Deus donavit homini meliorem complexionem quam sit reliquis [illegible] et propterea sit aptus ad praestantiores operationes, quae pendent solum ab eo quod habet ut ad opera-tionem et contemplationem natum. Atque caloris [illegible] in homine origo est a corde. Quamvis enim omnes partes corporis humani huius caloris participent: necesse tamen est aliquam unam partem esse primam et fontem reliquarum, quia omnis multitudo debet ad unum principium reduci. Prima igitur pars in huius corpore est fons caloris, cuius praesentia et participatione reliqua calent est cor ipsum: ita ut in corde velut in propria arce et officina hic calor primitus continuatur, ac tamquam in sede recipiatur, a quo postea influens in alias partes omnes vivificat et varium calorem implantatum excitat et ducit, velut a potentia ad actum. Quamprimum vero hic caloris influxus desinit partes omnes frigescunt et corporis — omnibus viribus sta-tim destituuntur. Recipitur autem hic calor a corde aliis partibus vario modo sicuti dicebamus de calore in ma-* gno mundo. — Cum recipitur reliquis partibus, haec varietas procedit a varietate partium et corporum in quibus iste calor assidue suscipitur a corde. v.g. cum suscipitur ab ossibus recipitur modo imperfectissimo propter imperfectissimam rationem illis praebet nempe solam subsistentiam, cum susci-pitur in carne, quia caro meliorem complexionem est adepta ideo paulo nobiliore modo calorem suscipit, ut caro non solum subsistat sed actum etiam movendi habeat. Si suscipiatur in [illegible] habebit hic calor non solum actio-nem vitae, sed et sensus et motus. Si denique suscipiatur in cerebro quod est instrumentum perfectiorum actionum, ideo perfectiores edet operationes rationem scilicet et intelligentiam. Haec est praesentia varia et officia caloris tum in magno tum in parvo mundo.

Haec,

De Calore accidentali

Hactenus quid sit calor substantificus, quot eius differentiae, quae sint officia et opera in humano corpore explicavimus, Nunc sequitur ut de calore accidentali agamus, ut potissimum de illo qui ad febrem potissimum pertinet. Circa quem illa eadem tria absolvemus quae superius absoluta de substantifico calore. Igitur quantum ad essentiam caloris accidentalis pertinet haec oratio continebitur: Ut calor accidentalis nil aliud sit quam complexio in unoquoque mixto orta ex actione et passione primarum qualitatum elementorum ad certam mensuram deductarum secundum exigentiam formae substantialis mixti ad opem tum a calore vitali substantifico facta. Declaro paucis totum hoc quod proposuimus.
Inprimis hic calor accidentalis complexio dicitur, quia in genere accidentis calor iste collocatur, ut propria hic magis hunc suscipiat hic magis intentionem et huiusmodi rationem ... et corrupti-bilis, radix autem corruptionis est contrarietas. Propterea hic calor ille est qui potissimum subiicitur medicorum operationi, quem si a longo non excedat per commoderationem quam si deficit per augmenti ad dictam caloris substantifici et coelestis compositum qualitates elementares subsistens, non magis nec minus suscipit nec contrarietatem habet, ut propria ab omni corruptione et alteratione immunis habeatur ac propria hic calor medicorum operationi non erit subiectus, quod fuit Hippocratis et sententia dicta, et alibi tum potissimum in lib. de carnibus et in lib. de ortu et de formatione foetus. Statuit his locis hunc ca-lorem nostrum ut coelestem sive divinum et immorta-lem appellat Calor, inquit in lib. de car. quod animal nutri-tur sentit atque movetur immortalis est comparandus non est elementaris et complexionalis. Hic autem calor complexionalis oritur ut diximus ex primarum qualitatum mutua actione et passione ut hinc pateat ex origine non a coelo sed ab elementis haberi. Differt tamen hic calor com-plexionalis a calore elementorum, quia in illis calor est in summo, at dum ex calore elementorum et qualitatibus illis fit mi-xtum, eorum est dictas qualitates refrangi ex quarum refractione oritur calor complexionalis, ut complexio nil aliud sit quam contrariarum et primarum qualitatum in unione re-ducta proportio. Ceterum hic calor complexionalis cum in mi-

in mixto cum in hoc corpore non sit ociosus, qualis est eius minus? quod officium est? At talis calor talis complexio est instrumentum formae substantialis mixti ad operandum, formae quae mixtorum cum sint plures et sint ut dicitur alter sicuti nu-meri, ita ut mutuo se excedant secundum maiorem et minorem gradum perfectionis. Hinc fit ut non eadem sit complexio in quocumque mixto non idem calor et caeteris, sed pro formarum varietate et differentia perfectionis variantium, exigunt etiam complexionem variam atque eam perfectiori nec minus.
Ideo forma humana cum omnium perfectissima sit, merito cum aliis excellentissimam complexionem obtinuit. Verum quia et complexio ista in mixto effectus quidam est, omnis autem effectus cau-sam effectricem supponit, ideo expedit ut inveniamus quae sit ea effectrix, quae sit agens huius caloris complexionalis.
Haec complexio sive calor tanquam ab agente principali fit et dependet a calore vitali et substantifico, qui quidem calor secundum facultatem quam in agendo retinet, sibi etiam accommodat in ipso mixto complexionem proportionatam, imo eam et conformem quodammodo sibi fabricat, quam a-gens potest in actum exire operando, eaque opera foras manifestare et in mixto exercere, quae ante mixtionem in intima sua natura tanquam in mente detinebat, quae sunt clara Hipp. sententia in lib. de form. foetus, ubi unitatem utriusque caloris in foetu formando proponens, in utero inquit sperma colligi-tur calefactum ac ingrossatum et spiritum habet tanquam existentem in calido, ut spermati calido existente, spiritus ipse est calor vitalis et substantificus, sperma externum, ita ut ex eo loco clare innuatur, ad foetus formationem duplicem concurrere hunc calorem, unitas autem huius caloris vitalis et substantifici in faciunda complexione non difficile ostendi potest, quod libenter declaro quia plerique sunt adeo obtusi ingenii et volunt hunc calorem fi-gmentum esse, omnia nec opera tribuentes complexioni, sed praeter calorem complexionalem dari alterum praestantiorem et ratione et auctoritate facile confirmo. Inprimis cum complexio oriatur ex primis qualitatibus elementorum contrariis, et haec complexio oriatur in subiecto corpore quod pariter ex contrariis elementorum naturis oritur, ex qualitatibus scilicet et lamb. C.is et f.is ex h. et s.is Secto vero quo fieri possit ut talia elementa ex tam distantibus naturis collata per ipsa possint devenire ad mixtionem, possint mutuam familiaritatem et amicitiam contrahere, nisi alterius agentis principalis favore et potentia tam distantes naturas et contrarias coniungeret, uniret et conciliaret: ita ut in his contrarietatibus Ca. f.is h.a siccis uni-antur. Hoc agens in mundo hoc magno est coelum ipsum, quod ut agens potissimum et principalissimum divino quodam decreto assidue movetur et motu suo ac influentia elementa quae undique circuit movet, movendo commiscet, commiscendo ad minima deducit summasque et contrarias eorum qualitates refrangit. Et multiplici ac vario in illa praevalens, multiplicia et mixtorum genera conficit. Quod ipsum contingit etiam in homine in prima sui generatione. Hominis enim principia in sui generatione sunt semen et sanguis menstruus, in quibus cum vitalis hic primo continuatur, is calor tanquam opifex et duo principia generationis nario nie sibi praeparant in utero ipso et ad tempus inducit, namque primum conformem sibi fabricat, quibus possit exercere et manifestare omnes suas operationes quas ante latenter in se continebat. Opifex igitur legitimus mixtionis, praeparationis, complexionis et conformationis in quolibet mixto virtus est calor iste substantialis vitalis, qui est sedes animae, et in-tam vehiculum. Calor vero elementalis illi inservit ut in-strumentum et sua materia praeparanda. Unde si calor elementalis et complexionalis esset causa effectrix complexionis in quo-libet mixto, idem generaret seipsum, idem ageret ultra proprias vires, quod vero inconveniens. Praeterea calor iste vitalis et substantificus in unoquoque mixto recipitur et est omnium operum auctor principalis. Unus vero secundum essentiam in omnibus mixtis a coelo tamen originem sumpsit, iste cum unus sit propter quod suam unitatem plura in unum reducere, consequenter plura contraria unire, plures et contrarias qualitates complexionare, ut ita dicam, quia convenit unitati rerum multi-plicitatem unire: at non e contra, sed multiplicat potius

repugnat ut sit ea unitatis propria multiplices & varias elementorum qualitates non potuerunt sibi ipsis unitatem praestare Ergo ab alio agente tamen unionem complexionum mixtio-num recipiunt, nempe a calore vitali & substantifico.
Praeterea hic idem calor per suam simplicitatem & per eorum tra quantitatis potest contraria conciliare. At quae contraria sunt non nisi semper possunt destruere, Ergo elementa per se ipsa numquam facerent mixtionem, complexionum, aut unionum. Praeterea hic idem calor cum ubique sit & penetret potest dissen-tes naturas alterare & alteratas in unum redigere. Praeterea hic idem calor vere quia non est aeternus cum omni aeterni-tate potest momentaneas & caducas qualitates stabiles & diuturnas reddere, in quolibet complexionato & mixto. Accedit quod hic idem calor vere quia est causa regulan-di & ordinandi omnia in debitum finem tollit omnem confusionem, & ita ubique operatur, ut partes omnes ita disponat & ordinet, ut singulae in singulis in proprios actus exire possit. Hic idem calor in viribus & facultatibus est. congenitus existens forma mixti & ipsi adeo potest inve-ubique tot praeparationes facere & in tot partibus potest tot comple-xiones & conformationes efficere, quot sunt animae poten-tiae & facultates exercendae, Ut in oculo praeparet illam po-tentiam ad visum & in aure ad auditum & sic de aliis membris. De hoc duplici calore aptissime loquitur et Aristoteles 2. de gene.
an. cap. 3. dum inquit: Omnis animae potestas corporis aliud participare videtur idque magis divinum quam quae elementa vocantur & subiungit, verum ut nobilitate & ignobilitate animae inter se differunt ita & natura eius corporis differt, & rursus eod. cap. subiungit, inest, inquit in semine omnium quod foecunda facit ut foecunda sint semina videlicet quod calor vocatur. Et addit idque non ignis quia ignis nullum animal generat, & addit neque talis facultas aliqua est elementalis, sed spiritus qui in semine spumosoque corpore continetur & proportione respondens elemento stellarum. Tanquam prima hic caloris originem. Galenus et 2. de temp. testatur quod omnium partium omnium corporis & earundem conformationem non pertinere a calore complexionali, sed inquit a diviniori formatore id est a calore existente super elementalem calorem quales et calor iste caelestis et substantificus: ita ut Gal. quoque ipse admiratus, admirabilem vocatur corporis humani fabricam statuere, praeter calorem complexionalem aliquem excellentiorem et internum tanti operis artificem cui omne opus primitus attribuendum, complexionali vero tanquam instrumento.

Circa calorem accidentalem et compositum explicanda sunt ad essentiam ipsius pertinebat. II. ad differentias suas specificas vires. III. ad munera et officia quae in corpore humano exercent, ex quibus primum iam absoluimus, nunc reliqua duo declaranda supersunt. Igitur quod ad divisionem huius caloris pertinet: Calor iste cum quia complexio est et consequenter qualitas corporea tot differentias habebit, quot erunt ipsa corpora in quibus hic calor subsistit. Ut cum in magno mundo 4 tantum sunt corporum genera differentia, 4 erunt huius caloris species. Itaque calor iste complexionalis vel est complexio mixti inanimati, vel mixti animati. Et si mixti animati vel animae vegetabilis ut planta, aut mixti animati sentientis ut ~~homo~~ animalia, vel mixti animati ratiocinantis ut homo. In parvo vero mundo namque in homine de quo nunc sermo est hic idem calor complexionalis humanus tot differentias habebit, quot sunt partes corporis humani quibus partibus totidem et animae facultates respondent: ita ut calor iste complexionalis alius sit cordis alius cerebri alius hepatis etc. Praeterea talis calor sive totius corporis fuerit sive partium et partium similarium principalium sive instrumentarium cum consideratur respectu eius quod est instrumentum substantifici caloris ad operandum, talis calor vel illi erit obediens vel rebellis: Si consideretur ut illi est obediens ita hic calor vocabitur naturalis quia secundum naturae leges operatur: Si vero consideretur ut est illi rebellis, ita oritur calor p. n. quia praeter leges naturae agit, et eius operationes vel totius corporis vel partis determinatae laesae sunt. Sive haec laesio in ablatione consistat sive in diminutione sive in depravatione. Praeterea talis calor complexionalis et p. n. vel est p. n. per excessum vel per defectum. Si per defectum ita oritur morbus frigidus ut ~~Lethargus~~ vel hydrops quia a calore diminuto et deficiente proficiscitur. Si vero recedit a naturali statu per excessum ita oritur morbus calidus, qualis est febris de quo hic agimus. Hunc calorem

complexionalem p. n. per excessum recedentem a naturali statu operationes. Sanxit Auic. in prima illa definitionis particula quam explicamus dicendo febrem esse calorem extraneum, per calo-rem intelligens non substantificum, quia iste non magis et minus recipit, sed accidentalem, qualis est complexionalis qui ma-gis et minus recipit. Addit extraneum ut intelligat ca-lorem complexionalem p. n. et cum calorem p. n. intelligit qui per excessum recedit, et non per defectum. Unum primum tarius considerandum circa hanc particulam dubitandi occasio oritur. An proprie verum sit febrem esse calorem extraneum calore excedentem. Si Auic. hoc loco sequimur p. d. ita statuendum erit, si Galenum et non aliter dicendum erit. Si vero licet ex rei natura et optimo fundamento philosophari, for-tasse melior erit ea sententia secundum quam dicere possimus, fe-brem ut febris est, non ita esse calorem extraneum intempe-riem c. et s. quia et non sit intemperies f. quia et non con-sistit in defectu caloris, quod ne paradoxum videatur alicui, mihi dictissima ni fallor unde tali veritate, immo ex sen-tentiis ipsiusmet Gali. et Auic. Febrium n. duae sunt differentiae, ut suo loco videbimus. Aliae proprie sunt cum aucto calore, quam aliae invadunt cum rigore, frigore et horrore. Si de prioribus sermo fuerit concessio has febr. in intemperie c. ~~constare~~ consistere. Si vero de aliis quae cum frigore et horrore invadunt, est dissensio. Ve-rum dicat hic Auic.: quod frigus et horror et rigor qui invadunt in initio quarumdam febrium non sunt partes febris, sed veluti accidentia, ut hac ratione febris semper sit calor extraneus, numquam frigus. Ego autem credo quod si calor extraneus est pars febris ~~et frigoris causam in febre~~ et frigus non minus erit eiusdem rationis sed longe magis quam calor, quod ut ostendit, supponam caloris et frigoris causam in febribus, ab una et eadem scilicet materia febrili oriri, quae materia cum duplici parte constet aquosa videlicet et frigida et ignea atque fuli-ginosa, dum haec materia a naturali statu recedit, quod fit quando putrescit, necesse est ut corpus afficiat iuxta exigentiam

sunt proprie nec, sed ea hyeme et [illegible] triplici illa parte constat, altera aquea & fa. reliqua fuliginosa, si igitur frigore utriusque corpus alteratum & affectum extremo frigo-scere vel incalescere. Ut enim utraque pars sit p. n. utique & calefactio & refrigeratio corporis eveniunt p. n. & si calefa-ctio pcedens a tali materia dr febris, cur etiam ea affectio corporis re cuius frigescit, febris non dicetur, non [illegible] maiorem non vim unius quam alterius. Secundo si haec materia re morbosa dr, quia in corpore operationes laedit, laeditque re qua corpus totum ignea reddit, Ergo illa eadem materia secundum suam qualitatem aquosam & fam corpus idem refrigerans laedit operationes, cur et refrigeratio non dr morbosa. Unde si vera est Gal. sententia lib. de diff. morb. quod morbus ille sit re qua certe lae-ditur in corpore suo & ob hanc rem (?) febris re qua totum corpus calefacit p. n. operationes laedendo, morbus dr, cur et ea affectio corporis quae in frigiditate consistit morbus non dicatur, si in eadem re operationes laeduntur. Utrique enim definitio morbi con-venit. Addo etiam quod si ille est maior morbus in quo ma-gis laeduntur operationes, affectio fa saepe erit intensior morbus quam calor, quia saepius patientes magis conqueruntur & molestantur a frigore, & rigore, in eo re operationes sunt magis laesae quam re caloris, & si re caloris communicati toti corpori comcati febris illa dr, longe magis re frigoris. Praeterea in feb. Epiala & hypialata per totum febris decursum non magis patiens afficitur calore quam frigore, uno enim & eodem tempore de frigore & calore simul conqueritur; ut tales febres non videantur magis consistere in Ca quam in fa intemperie. Verum quispiam petat, si res ita se habeat cur a quo Autores Gal. & reliqui hic statuunt feb. non calida intemperie unica fa. Nescio aliud respondere, nisi videntur sustinere eandem sententiam, quod denominationes hic fieri debeant a superabundante, ab iis quae ut in pluribus eveniunt, ~~[illegible]~~ Unde cum ex febribus plures sine rigore & frigore invadant, sed totae in calore sunt positae & postrema ex illis quae cum rigore et vel frigore invadunt, maior pars in calore quam in rigore & frigore solvatur, sine ratione ut febris a calore potius denominari debeat quam a frigore ipso. Certe

cum febr. sit calor sic externus & contrag. sit res p.n. res a p.n. tres potissimum sunt, quia ut sunt seu vel sunt morbi vel sympt.a causae, opt., an dum statuimus feb. esse calorem p.n. an hic calor sit morbus vel mor bi ca. vel sympt.ma Si Avic.m & Gal.m sequimur statim dicemus febrem esse qua est calor externus esse quoniam feris Ca. & sequitur esse morbum & esse morbum primum simila-rium ad differentiam organicarum. Ego a natura incipiens duce, tamen Hipp. autoritate fretus, censeo febrem esse qua est calor externus & intemperies morbus non, sed potius symptoma & sympt.a in qualitate mutata, qua veritatem Ut ordine exordiar ab eo principio quod certo nemo nega-re audebit, quam difficultatem libenter ut exponam quando ordine quod febris esse quod est morbus ex usu artis non logicus, agnoscens, non vero contemplabilis, non distingui a sua causa, et potius illa quae sola indicabit auxilium innuens & auxilium innuens curatorium. Ita ut in febre curan-da non ab intemperie calida primo & per se oriatur auxilium in-nuens curatorium sed a sua causa ab intemperie a. secundario & per accidens. Quod ut ordine suppono quando est, illum esse vere & realiter morbum in corpore humano, vero quo actio immediate laeditur & quo eo ablato actio sine alterius interventu quod sit ex artis usu, restituitur.
Ita Gal. ut affirmante in morbi definitione. Atqui immediate laedit operationem in febre est causa & causa realis, causa ex usu artis & non e contra, sed causa coniuncta, ut hac posita immediate actio laedatur, ac ipsa ablata nata est actio immediate restituatur. Ergo huic causae conveniat morbi essentia & nomen & non alteri quod probo sumpta vero ex partium & coordinatione earum quarum gratia laeduntur operationes in corpore humano. Nam quicquid est p.n. in corpore humano est causa vel effectus seu symptoma primum a dicta causa. Ita ut inter causam morbificam immediatam & coniunctam & primum sympt.a non intercedat morbus quod sit ex artis usu.
Sed si morbus aliquis intercederet esset logicus non tamen con-templabilis non ex usu artis, Et ordo ex dicta earum coorcoordinatorum nam cum morbificae quae in corpore hominis laedunt operationes sunt plures, distinctae tamen per ut aliquae sunt remotissimae a laesa actione, aliquae sunt coniunctae & immediatae, ut illis positis statim sequatur laesio quaedam medio inter utramque aut remotiss.a possunt vocari causae generalis. Coniunctae sunt specie specialiss.ae & quae interiacent subalternae. Cum quid a. a tali coordinatorum pendeat, omne id erit effectus & sym-ptoma talem coordinationem & gradum exemplo simplici familiariss.o ab ablata mictione declaro. Ablata mictionem symptoma vesicae in actione ipsius ablata. Consequenter est effectus.

Sic effectus & actio ablata haec mictio sublata omnino o-ritur ab aliqua causa. Haec causa a qua oritur vel erit coniuncta medi. et proxima ut erit remotiss.a vel erit media, quae non est immediata. Illa est inter quam & suam actionem laesam nihil interiacet, sed illa posita statim & immediate subsequitur suppressa mictio, & eadem ablata dicta actio restituitur. Sed causa coniuncta abla-tae mictionis est v.g. lapis qui ante meatum urinarium existens obstruendo meatum tollit. Hic lapis est causa & est ea causa quae principaliter indicat auxilium curatorium, ita ut lapis & causa vero sit & morbus, quia sicut per sui praesentiam in dicto meatu statim proxime & immediate mictionem supprimit, ita per eiusdem absentia et remotionem statim & immediate mictio restituitur.
Causa vero mediata hic suppressionis lotii, erit ea causa inter quam & suppressionem lotii interiacet causa proxima lapis, ideo talis causa erit materia terrestris et arenosa quae non con-tinet subtilitatem & densitatem, cum lapide, ab eoque solum distat, quia substantia haec arenosa nondum est congelata, nondum lapidescit. Causa vero remotiss.a erit illa ex qua oritur & arenosa substantia. Consequenter erit materia arida pituitosa, crassa & terrestris quae in renibus & reliquo corpore continetur, quae causae tres licet omnes in corpore contineantur quia tamen quae sunt remotae & remotiss.ae latitant in corpore & sensibilem adhuc laesionem non faciunt sicut proximae & coniunctae, ideo proprie morbi nomen non sunt, dicti a Gal. vocantur causae continentes.

V. Noster scopus erat videre quod febris non est morbus ex-tis nihil aliud est creato quam causa illa proxima et coniuncta permanentia opera statim laedebantur, calidas vero sanitati contraria permanens ab hac subiecta non est causa et toti corpori communicata erat symptoma et quod consequens. Igitur ut declarem melius exordium a coordinatione causarum concurrentium ad laesas actiones fa-ciendas accipiamus exemplum a laesa mictione, cuius morbus a quo pendet nonaliquis erat quam causa genita vel lapis me-atum urinarium obstruens. causae vero alibi contentae ut in renibus et aliis partibus erant causae remotae. Sicuti ~~[illegible]~~ humores in renibus contenti ex quibus causa continua erant causae remotissimae. ideo in curatione quod indicat auxilium curatorium erit morbus. hoc est causa genita erit lapis causae vero remotae et remotissimae quia actu nocentes sunt morbosae, nec actu impediunt actionem, ideo indicant auxilium praeservatorium. Eodem modo febris ut accommodem.
Item ut prius dictum febris statim indicio, cum enim non febris laedantur operationes naturales coctio vid. attractio, retentio nutritio et huiusmodi, necesse est talem laesam actionem talem effectum per necessitatem pendere a sua causa, Haec a. laedens operationes in febre non est nuda intemperies calida et sicca quia haec sunt a substantia, et anima calore non subsistit, accidens non per se subsistentiam non habet sed alicui inhaeret subiecto, tale a. subiectum in febre ipsa a Gal. triplex statuitur spiritus vel spiritus humor respectu putr.: et sol. pars respectu hecticae ita ut ephemera non sit intemperies nuda calida et sicca quo modo distingueretur a putr. et hectica quae omnes intemperies sunt. Distinguuntur non per intemperiem calidam et siccam sed per intemperiem talem subsistentem ut in spiritibus ~~[illegible]~~ humoribus vel ~~[illegible]~~ solidis: ita ut ephemera putet morbus vero et realis et ex actis vero sit spiritus vitalis accensus: feb. putrida nil aliud sit quam determinatus humor putrefactus, feb. hectica nil aliud sit quam pars solida corporis accensa. Eodem demum horum subiectorum accensorum coniungitur inseparabiliter caliditas, quae tamen ad accensum generatur rad. caliditas intervenit quo laeduntur opera-tiones ita ut operationes quae in febre quacumque laeduntur dependeant a causa sua proxima remota et remotissima declaro: Capiamus exemplum explicatum a febre continua, in hac actio, certe s[ecundu]m vulgus laeditur. ~~Et~~ istae laesae actiones ut a causa immed[iata]: ~~et~~ a materia bil[iosa] putrescente pendent non a mala intemperie, q[uod] patet, q[uonia]m p[rae]sentia huius materiae immediate laeduntur, operationes et p[er] ministerium absentiam operationes re-stituuntur integrae. Causa vero remota erit ord[inarie] biliis sed non actu putrescens nec morbosa ad hunc sed alibi contenta apta tamen ad putrescend[um]. Propterea in curanda hac febre duplex indico oritur, altera curatoria, altera p[rae]servatoria. Indico curatoria indicans auxiliu[m] curatorium & utile non capitur ab alio q[uam] a materia actu putre-scente p[rae]sertim vero capitur a materia eiusdem generis nondum putre-scente sed alibi contenta. Hinc patet talem earum coordinatio[n]em ut aliae sint pro[xim]a aliae remotae aliae remotiss[im]ae essentia statu & viribus non differre, nisi eo modo quo differt actu primus a 2do et actu docens et non docente actu: item quo differt vigilans a seipso dormiente. Nam materia q[uae] actu non putrescit dormit, vigi- + landum actu putrescit. Hinc itaq[ue] patet in q[uo] febris essentia realis & ex usu actis consistit, q[uonia]m consistit in sua causa proxi[m]a, et & immediata, Si v[ero] febrem capiamus eo amplius essentiatur sua causa sed effectivo q[uo] suo effectu, cum hic nil aliud sit q[uam] totius corporis calefactio p[rae]ter n[aturam] et actio nalis laesa, ideo febris s[ecundu]m hanc sensum erit o calor externus p[rae]ternus a sua causa proxima, erit quid complexus effectivus & sympt[om]a. Ne a-hac q[uo]d haec tamen dictaminy & eorum satis confirmationis voluntario dicta videantur per illos q[ui] autoritatibus magis q[ua]m r[ati]o[n]i na innituntur, licet unica Hipp. autoritate hanc veritatem sigillare. Hipp. in lib. de antiq.

med. circa initia ex p[ro]fesso redarguit omnes medicos q[ui] statuunt nudas q[uali]tates C. F. H. & S. esse morborum causas & ppau ab illis de-sumi indicationes curatorias, sed plane ondit, q[uod] istis q[ua]litatibus nec sint tribuendae potiones neq[ue] curationes morborum, & hoc r[ati]o q[ui]a nudae istae q[ua]litates non h[ab]ent realem subsistentiam in materia ut morbi, sed in q[ua]libet mixto, ita sunt alligatae alteri cum o-pori famulantes tanquam instrumenta ideo seorsum & per se expressus q[ua]litatum non indicabit, nisi eo q[uo]d mixto alligantes q[ua]litates inserviunt actionibus viribus & statibus illius subiecti, q[uo]d s[ecundu]m affect[ion]em o-mnia causa morbosa, ideo in febre ex putredine biliis non oritur indico simplex refrig: et hum: sed oritur auxiliu[m] F. & H. tale (non simplex) q[uo]d exigit s[ecundu]m materia putrescens. Hinc fit ut si febris eo q[uo]d febris indicaret auxiliu[m] refrig. & hum. tantum solo potu aq[uae] sanaremus omnes febres. Sed q[ui]a exigunt ipse tale F. & H: ideo auxiliu[m] curatorium in febre v[ero] e bil: erit auxilium refrig. & hum: bilem, respiciens ista q[ua]litates ut sunt ut sunt in mixto ex bil. Et hinc est ut non utamur aqua sed ex hordeacea quae duo habet usus. Quae sunt s. & h. e. respiciunt in putrefacientes bilem cum acrimonia mobilitate & aliis proprietatibus resistunt, et calore in febre hectica non oritur inde tum res hae: & humi: sed quia oportet respicere ad statum febrilis e. & sed in hac febre est solida pars accensa & quae assidue consumitur, ideo indicabit hoc febr. auxilium non refrig. & humi: simpliciter, sed tale quod sit aptum resarcire humidi consumptionem, et propter statum huius febr. ideo haec febr. indicat auxil: refrig: & humi: aptale, & adhuc non quomodocumque aptale, sed illud quod facile potest coagulari, ita ut extra laborem caloris huius quod deperditur restauretur, hinc medicinentur lacte quod non solum est ex ma auxi-lii humectantis, sed substantifice humectantis & non hoc solum sed facile coagulabitis ut facile possit in partem solidam deperditam converti. Sed haec quo ad primam particulam hujus dicta sufficiant.

Accensus in corde.

Cum calor accensus accidens sit, consequenter aliqua requiritur sub-stantia. Talis substantia est ipsum cor ita ut cum dicatur calor accensus in corde tamquam in subiecto, ac si dicerem quod quando fe-bre cor necessario alterabitur afficietur, calore praeter naturam. Gal. ita ut attestante 1. de dif. febr. cap. 1. & 4. & lib. de marcore sive cap. 5. Si in quacumque febre cor necessario afficitur videndum est an quod se primo incalescat sicuti contingit vel potius aliunde talem calorem recipiat, nempe ab alia corporis parte primitus incalescente, cum unus caliditas sanguinis & etiam per partem post partem cordi communicetur, & deinde corde mediante toti corpori impartitur, dicendumque cor per utroque modo incalescere, ita ut in febre ita sit illius statum ut sive ipso incalescente febris non fiat sive primum sive secundario incalescit, sive per se sive alterius partis gratia. Si in omni itaque febre cor necessario afficitur & citra illius affectionem febris fieri nequit, quaerenda est causa huius rei, quidam enim referunt in hoc in-stitis principatum quod causa non est ac perfecto et integre vera sed diminuta, quia etsi cor ad multas partes relatum principatum obtineat: si tamen ad principales referatur nempe ad hepar cerebrum & testes non principatum obtinebit ideo cor.
Nam in respectu ad hepar principale erit, sed in respectu ad cerebrum magis principale erit, quia nobiliores operationes exercet, & ob hanc causam cerebrum cum magis sit principale deberet

debeat dici magis subiectum febris. Contra dicimus quod cum febris sit morbus totius corporis ac primo omnium partium, necessarium est in hac tanta partium multitudine vel aliquam in unam partem principalem quae primo febricitat, & illius causa et participatione reliquae omnes successive febre afficiantur.
Haec autem pars inprimis debet esse principalis cum natura est natura, ut ceterae partes quae ab illa dependent, illius conditionem participent, at membra dicuntur principalia vel quia nobiliora opera exercent ut cerebrum vel quia sit principium & causa cur reliqua omnes operantur & eiusmodi est cor, sine quo reliquae partes non exercent sua munera & cum sit quia in corde ut in propria officina vitales spiritus assidue generantur & per horum spirituum continuum influxum a corde in totum corpus per arterias & venas ceterae omnes partes & vitam suscipiunt & in suas operas exercent. Ideo qualis erit influxus huius caloris cordis in totum corpus, tale totum corpus afficietur, Ideo corde tempera-to existente calor totius temperatus est, ut et opera partium omnium integre exerceantur. At vero corde intemperato existente ut in febre contingit dum calidius plus aequo redditur, calor qui influit erit intensior & ideo unde totum corpus calidius redditur ut in febre continua. At si in calore deficerit cor, ut in lypothymia syncope totum corpus frigescit, non igitur immerito cum febris sit passio totius corporis ex extraneo calore af-fecti, necessarium est huius calorem primitus sumptum esse in aliquo principe membro cum causa reliqua omnia augeant, quod cum sit cor ipsum, ideo diximus febrem esse calorem extraneum accensum in corde. Statutum fuit subiectum febris esse ipsum cor; Cordis autem pontia cum ex tribus potissimum constat scilicet spiri-tibus, humoribus & solidis, nunc investigandum, an cor subiectum febris dicatur vel ratione totius vel partis constituentis ipsum cor. Dicendum est quod si sermo habetur de febre prout non est ex artis usu sed tantum ratione contemplabilis, ita febris subiectum nil aliud erit quam cor ipsum universum prout scilicet tota eius substantia tribus illis essentiis constat, spiritibus scilicet humoribus & solidis. Si vero sermo sit de febre ut est ex artis usu tunc cor subiectum erit febris non in totum sed penes partem determi-natam. Unde in Ephemera cor subiectum febris erit penes spiritus febris febris. Fit enim febris quando scilicet ~~cordis corpus dicitur febricitare~~ cordis calor inflammatus praeter naturam qui ita intensus mediantibus spiritibus sanguine communicatur toti corpori, tunc corpus dicitur febricitare. Si haec febris fit ut generatur, sequitur febrem fieri non posse citra motum localem, quod enim movetur in febre est calor extraneus cordis, calor febrilis, qui a corde in corpus universum distribuitur. At in motu locali ut ex Philosophis habetis plura requiruntur, in primis occurrit terminus a quo incipit hic motus, 2 occurrit terminus ad quem motus iste desinit. 3. via per quam motus fit. 4. ipsum mobile quod movetur per has vias. 5. et tempus quo motus omnis mensuratur. Et in febre addere et aliud possumus quod est subiectum ipsum, res cuius febrilis calor in totum corpus defertur. Si haec optime cognoscantur, integra habebitur cognitio generationis fe-bris, ideo paucis singula declaro: Quantum ad motus initium pertinet, hoc non est uno modo cor nunc pars alia a corde summitta. quando si febris fiat quia cor primario afficitur et non ratione alterius, certum erit utrumque initium huius motus, si vero cor febrili calore corripiatur secundario quod contingit quando ab alia parte calorem hunc febrilem recipit, tunc initium motus non erit cor sed illa pars a qua cor ipsum incalescit, quando si propter phlegmonem febr. oriatur primum initium huius motus erit phlegmona. Ibi enim est febris focus fe-bris. Si vero febris oriatur citra alterius partis noxam quando si quis ob iram febricitet, tunc cor erit initium huius motus. Ceterum circa modum generationis huius febris unum notandum occurrit, quia dictum fuit febrem in toto corpore non fieri nisi calor febrilis prius cor detineat, et deinde gratia huius calor toti communicatur, sive cor primo afficiatur sive alterius partis gratia notandum inquam quod calor diversimode communicatur ab alia parte ipsi cordi et alio modo a corde communicatur toti corpori. Namque Gal: lib. de c. m. 2. et 2. de diff. febr. ult. Calor febrilis qui cordi communicatur ab alia parte corporis communicatur motu satis lento sanguinis et paulatim, ita ut pars inflammata primo calefa-ciat partem sibi vicinam et vicina inflammata aliam sibi vicinam et coniunctam inflammat et calefacit: et ita deinceps successive quod partem post partem donec perveniat hic calor usque ad cor, huius vero contingit ratione cordis inflammati toti communicat hunc calorem quidem non sanguini et paulatim communicat ~~hunc~~ ut prius, sed confertim et quasi subito, quod propter rationem huius diversitatis? Videamus totam rem referre videntur in spivitalis

Vitales cordis, tum in nobilissima differentia ~~sed~~ in subito hunc calorem febrilem in totum corpus. 2° referunt id in venas patentes & aptas, quae dicuntur ab Avicenna: Et in hac differentia comprehendi videtur, Et hoc spiritus quia tenuissimi sunt ac proinde mobilissimi: qui a corde in totum corpus assidue fluunt & velut momento ubique pertingunt fit ut hic calor febrilis cordis subito in ictu dicto in circulo toti corpori communicetur. Cum motu ita consertim facto, fiunt et ductus patentes nempe venae & arteriae quae ea lucet in so nora sit diminuta vel fulga sed ob naturam spirituum & patentiam viarum calor febrilis toti communicatur velut subito ab ipso cor, de quod contra accidit cum per vasa dicta venas & per modum spiritus non perit hic idem febrilis calor reliquo et corpore quod affecto communicari ipsi cordi velut subito. Contra dicendum quod ea cum a corde sta, tim communicetur toti, non est spiritus simpliciter sed talis spiritus nempe spiritus vitalis, Spiritus autem quidam sunt influentes quidam vero complantati. Influentes sunt in perpetuo motu ut qui a corde assidue fluunt in corpus totum actu modo quo ficiendo & nunc firmando spiritus implantatos in aliis partibus.
Spiritus vero implantatus ille est qui residet in alia quaevis parte seorsum a corde quod spiritus implantatus ad differentiam influentis sit qui in corde residet vel quovis quodam suo membro semper haeret, ideo ~~—~~ nil mirum si pars aliqua corporis seorsum a cor, de inflammato seorsum communicet hunc suum calorem infla, matorium & febrilem ipsi cordi sensim & paulatim, in vero fit in corde quod ab ipso febrilis calor toti communicatur quia cor, dis spiritus est valde mobilis non est implantatus, Ideo assidue & ~~continuo~~ quasi momento in totum corpus diffunditur, Ideo cum semel cordis fuerit affectum febrili calore hunc febrilem ca, lorem subito transportabit in totum corpus, Videtur quod ad sen, sum a quo incipit hic est non cor, nec alia pars corporis dicitur, Dicimus vero ad quantitatem hic motus caloris febrilis non est pars aliqua corporis determinata sed est corpus vitis quantitatis non communicat unam partem magis alteram af, ficit in febre, sed quod est ratio quod in febre totum corpus aliqua hac calore affectum? Respondeo natura est quemadmodum calor a corde pertinens quo totum corpus aequaliter & assidue distribuitur, ita ut si talis ca, lor naturalis fuerit aptus est conservari calorem implantatum in ceteris omnibus partibus, si vero hic idem calor praeter naturam extiterit vitiabit

ystiabit calorem implantatum in toto corpore hinc est ut in febri ticorum totum corpus febricitare non autem certam aliquam particulam quod de novo fieri debet a toto et a termino huius motus non a parte aut initio motus. Igitur cum totum corpus hoc calore af ficiatur et cum motus huius caloris finiatur in toto, merito d nunc totum febricitare, non autem aliquam partem determinatam.
Quantum ad vias per quas hic calor febrilis movetur, viae istae vasa sunt patentia tum et occulta. Vasa manifesta per febrilis calor a corde in totum corpus distribuitur, duo sunt Venae et arteriae, quae ut ab Avicenna in sua anatomia sunt in proposita. Viae vero occultiores sunt meatus cutanei et terminum et extimum omnium corporis, de quibus Avicenna non meminit, propterea fuit dimittendus quoniam proponendo nam sunt magis principalia critice et intellexit de viis principalibus. Quantum vero ad tempus hic non consideramus tempus pro partibus febris sed per tempus critice intelligimus sub hac causa non per tempus in mensura motus caloris febrilis a corde in totum corpus se quam considerationem plura spectanda sunt circa motum calo ris febrilis, inter cetera vero longitudo et brevitas etiam 2 Continuitas et interpositio. 3. tarditas et frequentia. Quod ad longitudinem et brevitatem, longitudo huius motus est mensura febrium diuturnarum. brevitas huius motus erit mensura febr: acutarum quae cito terminantur. Continuitas vero m tus erit mensura febrium continuarum, interpositio vero m tum motus erit mensura febr. intermittentium. Tarditas tamen erit mensura febr. tum continuarum tum intermitt tium quae tarde et tardius innatant eiusmodi sunt quartanae ebetur alterum est spiritum ipse spiritus alterum mali et ma copulantium ipsi sang: utrumque mas huius est quod calor febrilis cum accidens sit, cum sit corporea qualitas quaedam, ne fluens corporis subiectum tamen arreptus sive complantatus est subi spirituum huius febrilis qualitatis, nec vero quod haec qualitas solum est accidens, sed et cito mobilis per totum corpus regit m solum subiecto sed et non ridiculo et non solum ridiculo sed et eo

cum cito diffunderetur in totum corpus, huiusmodi est spiritus ipse quoque quod sua substantia est secundum qualitatis febrilis, vel quod sicut valde mo-bilis est vehiculum vel cum qualitas febrilis defertur in totum corpus, vel quia non solum est mobilis, sed cito mobilis ob tenuitatem sue substantie, & calor cito recipitur. Cum vero hic

cum corpus tenuissimum sit non poterat corpori suo ac proinde corpori ad-modum crasso coniungi absque aliquo medio, huiusmodi medium est sanguis ipse qui inter utrumque corpus crassissimum & subtilissimum inter-cedit ita ut febrilis qualitas primo recipiatur in spiritu tanquam in principali vehiculo deinde in sanguine tanquam in vehiculo secunda-rio postremo in tertiam partem sanguinis suscepto in solidis partibus [illegible] Autor: utrumque vehiculum caloris febrilis tanquam non tamen dixit mediante spiritu sed addit dixit sanguis. Sanguis enim duplex cum sit, alter subtilior quoad spiritus nam magis accedit, qualis est qui in arterijs continetur, alter vero crassior qualis est qui in venis reperitur, neutrum communiter ut vehiculum huius febrilis caloris, & Autor: utrumque ut tetigit quando dixit per venas & arterias quibus enim spiritus & sanguis in eo conveniant quia ambo sunt vehicula febrilis caloris, differunt tamen ut paulo ante declaravimus, quoniam spiritus est principale vehiculum, sanguis vero secundarium. Subiungit Autor. & inflammatur in eo inflammatus qui nocet actionibus naturalibus. Pro cuius particule intelligentia notare oportet quod calor in corde accensus ut ita accenditur & inflammatur ut adhuc in latitudine sanitatis contineatur & ab calore intrinseco ad hunc operis pertinet quando contingit si quis vel extra, vel intra sub sole vel nimio est operibus motus febrilis accenditur. Hic calor accensus quia non eum non accenditur & extranus redditur ipsius causa cessante pertinet, potius & hic calor non est morbosus. Talis enim calor ita extraneus evadit non quia novus calor sit distinctus vero com-plexionalis ulterioris gradus caliditatis suscipit, vel quorum non amplius potest intrinsece & secundum naturam motu operari, quod gradus caloris per naturam superadditi sunt ut fuerint ut plures ut pauciores, ita fiunt febris non intensior non remissior, immo si isti gradus adeo intendantur ut omnino calor per naturam mutatur intra amplius non potest consistere. Sed mors immanis sequitur, quia talis calor ita non hominum auctus non amplius potest

sit ne instrumentum in deinceps corpus ad operandum ut ablatis operibus vitae mors ipsa succedat, laeduntur quae operationes ob laesionem huius calorem complexionalem. Ex qua particula colligitur quod febris non est passio cordis tantum, quin etiam non sit totius corporis si quidem in ira calor cordis accenditur excessive magis inardescit, sed non accidit febrilis est quia ratione huius caloris cor tamen incalescit, non tamen ita incalescit ut vacat operationibus, sicuti ad morbum ibi namque necessario requiritur. Morbus enim semper est cum sensibili laesione operationum. Gal. auctore lib. de morb. diff.
c. 7. et c. 11. et in arte medica: 82. Agit his locis Gal. quod quis afficiatur capitis gravitate dolore aut vigiliis non propria a consuetis operationibus desistere cogatur, aeger non dicatur. In febre ergo cum quae est morbus calor ita excessivus us debet reddi ut laedantur operationes, Continuum quia oper-ationum quaedam sunt naturales, quaedam animales et quae ad animam pertinent, aliae sunt motrices aliae sensitrices, quaeritur et dubitatur An in febre laeduntur omnes istae operationes vel potius aliquae, et si aliquae quaenam istae sint. Avic. in hac proposita debes de-cernere videtur quod in febre laeduntur solum operationes naturales quae consistunt in generatione seu gignendo, in nutritione, in auctione et in illis actionibus etiam quae inserviunt praedictis nam-que attractione retentione coctione et expulsione, nec immerito istae operationes in febre dicuntur laedi quia cum febris sit pas-sio corporis secundum primas partes similares, inde actiones partium similarium dicuntur laedi. Ergo quia feb. est passio omnium partium similarium, ideo omnes et actiones partium similarium laedun-tur, ut propria vitae actiones laedantur secundum quamcumque m partem corporis, Verum ex altera parte videtur quod non solum laeduntur istae operationes ~~et~~ hae sed laeduntur reliquae omnes ad animam pertinentes, quod clare ostendo non modo ratione sed experientia, ratio quidem desumpta ex febris essentia. Nam febris est qua imprimis est morbus necessario debet laedere operationes et in hoc omnes conveniunt, eadem feb. est quod non solum est morbus partis determinatae sed totius debet etiam laedere operationes totius corporis, aliter non esset morbus totius. Item in febre calor complexionalis totius ~~m~~ corporis igneus redditur, accidit ideo quod febris cum sit ille calor excessivus

quam in corde est accensus, cor autem sit officina caloris per cuius caloris influxum calor complantatus ceterorum partium su-stinetur et vitam suscipit. Ergo si iste calor influens a corde fuerit praeter naturam et morbosus, necessario et calor totius talis evadet, ac per consequens opus totius in febre laeditur. Sensus quoque testimonio hoc idem facile confirmatur, si vero discurramus per singulas facultates corporis nostri et imprimis quae ad il-las quae ad naturam pertinent, quod opera illarum laedantur constat quia in omni febricitante nutritio totius corporis laesa est, quod ostendit macies corporis quae febrem protinus insequitur; quod et de facultatibus animalibus operationibus, et primo quoad sensitivas externas patet quia solent febricitantes habere sensus vel omnes vel aliquos depravatos olfactum vel gustum et alios sensus, ut obtenebrationes et oculorum quas patiuntur et in auribus et tinnitum quem praeter naturam sentiunt. Sensorium et tactus afficia cum sit calidius praeter naturam facile errat in iudicando. Quod et ad animales facultates et primo motivas patet quod febricitantes in motu locali valde debilitantur. Laeduntur et operationes internae sensitivae quoniam in febribus solent et patientes debilitare, oblivisci, Tandem quae ad vitales facultates constat harum et operationes laesas esse, quod ostendit pulsus frequentior, velocitas et magnitudo in febribus. Itaque statuendum erit quod in febre omnes quasi corporibus totius operationes laedi, nec propterea adversabimur Avicennae quando in sua definitione dicit laedi in febre operationes naturales, quasi quod excludat operationes animales, quoniam per operationes naturales Avicenna non intelligit illas quae distinguuntur a vitalibus et animalibus, sed generatim omnes comprehendit, quae omnes operationes quae naturae modum servant naturales dicuntur, quae aberrant a mo-do contra naturam vocantur. Ideo Avicenna cum dicit quod fe-bris nocet omnibus operationibus naturalibus intelligit quod omnes operationes sive ad naturam sive ad animam pertinent in febre naturalem modum non servant, ideo febris erit morbus qui nocebit omnibus operationibus. Absoluta febris essentia et mediante aeris calefactione reliqua duo incalescant, nempe aqua et parietes, talis aeris calefactio proportione correspondebit corpori in quo primum subiectum caloris est spiritus ipse, reliqua vero duo, scilicet aqua et paries, quae secundario incalescunt, hoc est febris quae primo occupat spiritus, et mediante calefactione spirituum secundario occupat humores et solida, magis de facili corporis quam ut humoralis vel hectica, quia solida et humores in corpore non incalescunt per se primo sed calore quem habent recipiunt a calefactione spirituum aut spiritibus commoderatis et humores et solida necessario ad pristinum revertuntur. Nam remota aeris calefactione cor-respondet calefactioni spirituum in corpore quia aer subiectum ca-loris tenuis et rarum non fortius ac spiritus in corpore. Secundo est similis in duratione, quia sicut aer in balneo per se primo incalescens cito amittit postea calorem quem recipit ab ipso igne, a pari in corpore spiritus accensus in corpore humano, quum mutatio est facta in ordine, quemadmodum in hoc balneo calefactione ignis, calor primo aeris alterabit et in-crementum aeris alterati alterat et aquam et parietes.

A pari in corpore contingit in qua primum subiectum caloris est spiritus reliqua duo post quae incalescunt, iusto igitur scilicet parietes et spiritus, itaque aqua sit primo calida, ut ab aliis subiectis primo calidis non dependeat aer vero et parietes tunc veniunt calida secundario quia horum caliditas dependet a calore ipsius aquae et ipsius aquae primo calidae. Itaque aqua vero quae primo est calida dicatur calida in facto esse, quia est independens.

Reliqua vero duo quae calorem ab aqua suscipiunt tunc calida in fieri. A pari contingit de febri humorali in corpore humano, cum si calor febris adveniat et primo calefaciat humores, ut humoribus primo calefactis reliqua duo post-medium incalescant nempe spiritus & solida, tunc oritur febris humoralis in qua febrilis iste calor primo in humore fundatur, cumque humor sit incalefactus, & calefactus non dependens, tunc reliqua vero duo spiritus scilicet & solida non quia secundario incalescunt ipsorum calor est in fieri & dependens, ut hac ratione solus humor sit febris subiectum non item reliqua duo. Consistit autem similitudo aquae calefactae in balneo cum humore affecto calore extraneo in corpore humano, quoniam aqua multis tis modis retinet similitudinem cum humoribus in primis quia sicuti aqua est inter corpora sensibilia & fluida; ita humor in corpore humano est corpus fluidum & liquidum. 2o similis est in duratione quia sicut aqua semel incalescens non cito amittit semel conceptum calorem sicuti facit spiritus vel aer, nec diu nimis retinet sicut paries & pavimentum sic se habet de humore in corpore humano cum calor febrilis non tam cito omnino desinit sicuti facit calor spirituum nec tam diu perdurat sicuti calor solidorum, praeterea est similis in ordine, quia sicuti aqua primo incalescens ab alio subiecto prius incalescente non dependet: ita in febribus humo rali caloris primum subiectum est humor, reliqua vero duo secundario incalescunt. | Venio ad 3m genus febris nempe Hecticae, Hectica febris est similis lateribus & parietibus balnei. Cum enim paries primo incalescit & ab hoc gradatim reliqua duo ita ut lateres vero qui primo incalescunt sint ea ut reliqua duo calida reddant, aer scilicet & aqua, Ut propterea lateres tunc sunt inca lefacti non, aqua vero et aer quia calorem suscipiunt a la teribus primo calefactis, idcirco secundario dicantur calida. Ut potius sunt calida in fieri dependentur quam in calefacto non & independentur, a pari res se habet in corpore humano, quando hec tica febre corripitur. Caloris enim extranei subiectum primum in Hectica sunt solida cordis & corporis totius quorum deinde gradatim reliqua duo incalescunt ita ut in hac febre solida sint in calefacto non sint calida independentur, Reliqua duo sint calida in fieri & dependentur, propterea est non febris Hectica sbia. Ergo febris dum corpus invadit primo fit Ephemera quia spiritus primo accenduntur, secundo humorosa succedit, quia humor secundum se minus dispositum est ut accendatur quam spiritus. Tertio Hectica succedit quia solidior pars adhuc difficilius succenditur ipso humore & spiritu. Hoc ipsum et in externis inis inflammabilibus contingit, quibus si ignis advenia, primo accendit subiecta tenuiora, velut paratiora ad ignem suscipiendum, deinde paulo crassiora: postremo omnium crassissima: quam si palea lignum & ferrum igni approsumpta est ex ordine corruptionis febrium & subiectorum, siquidem Ephemera quia in subiecto raro fundatur: citissime omnium pertransit. Paulo longior est humoralis.

Hectica vero omnium longissima. Quod pariter in aliis mundo contingit, quod ex eisdem subiectis magis vel minus dispositis ad diutius detinendum externum calorem. Ve-rum ex altera parte Gal. ubique testatur, quodlibet febris Hectica post alias vel praecedentibus, vel putrida non praecedente Ephemera: & ita de aliis sicuti ex ipso dictis 1. de diff. feb: 7 & 8. & 10 Methodi cap. 5. Quae sententia potest eodem met fundamento confirmari, quo haec prior innitebatur, desumpto scilicet ex maiori & minori disposito subiecti febrilis. Nam quodlibet subiectum febris iam propositum spiritus scilicet & humor & solidum potest esse non dispositum ad febrem & alterum reliquis indifferenter est magis dispositum ve-rum. Ita ut si solida pars magis fuerit disposita ad febrilem calorem fiet primo Hectica, si humor fiet primo putrida, si spiritus fiet primo Ephemera. Hoc potest familiari exemplo li-quidius declarari sumpto ab externis pariter materiis accendendis, ut si ex parte una ex parte secunda accipiamus

v. g. gossypium vel stupam quae tenuia sunt corpora ac proinde spiritibus correspondentia. Ex altera parte sit lignum crassius

Quae superadditis quae leniora crassius & densius. Ex parte vero agentis sit ignis flam-ma, quia ignis ut sit perfectius utrique suo opposito, nulli dubium quin citius flamma accendat stupam quam lignum.

Verum si ex parte agentis fuerit ignis efficacior & non sit ignis flamma sed ignis ferri valde igniti, contrarium contingat, quia ferrum ignitum citius agit in lignum quam in ipsam stupam. Et ratio diversitatis est ex diversitate virtutis agentis, quia agens sit validum & efficax in agendo, magis iam et citius agit in passum sibi proportionatum quam in passum non proportionatum, sed virtuti ferri igniti magis est proportionatum lignum & suscipit virtutem tanti agentis quam gossypium & stupa. Idem praeterea non contingere est in febribus quando ab vehementiori calore possunt soli-da prius accendi non accensis humoribus, vel humores prius accendi non accensis spiritibus. Hinc facile colligitur solutio ad ultimum problema. Admirantur vulgares quomodo fieri potest ut vi fulguris gladius in vagina colliquetur vagina integra permanente, cum debuisset non aliunde quam ex summa agentis vi & potestate & passi et materiae dispositione. Fulgur autem est ignis vehemens ut eius tota actio & virtus suscipiatur melius in materia densiori, crassiori & duriori: cuiusmodi est ferrum quam in materia rara cuiusmodi est vagina. Virtus vero fulguris est agens in vagina & ferrum facile vaginam pertransit ob raritatem citra aliquam noxam, at virtus in ferro suscipitur sed detinetur: proinde ferrum colliquabitur vagina integra permanente. Eadem sit ratio in corpore humano si contingat virtutem agentis caloris non validam & solida corporis non disposita tale agens primo afficiet solida quam vel spiritus vel humores & ita fiet hectica ab initio. Pro solutione vero huius difficultatis notandum quod spiritus humores & solida dupliciter considerari sunt in ordine ad suum esse i: ad eam calefactivam. Altero vero possunt in resisten-do & suscipiendo virtutem agentis eam calefactivam sunt aquae disposita, ita ut in genere suo non sit maior dispositio in spiritu quam in humore vel substantia solida. Et hoc ubi si contingat ut accedat talis causa calefactiva, cuius vis in agendo non sit magnae activitatis, tunc prius et citius inflam-mabitur tenuior substantia quam crassa et solida: et hac ratione prius fiet ephemera quam humoralis, et prius humoralis quam hectica.

Si vero ex altera parte secundum naturam eorum dispositionem, sed ex parte agentis vis eius tamen sit instar fulguris, ordo oppositorius erit, quoniam agat haec causa prius in solido quam in humores et spiritus quod familiari etiam exemplo ostendi potest. Nam si fuerit v.g. radix aliqua et fuerit lignum ut quaestne sunt combustibilia, et his accedat ignis et ignis va-lens, hic ignis comburet prius lignum quam radicem, quamvis lignum durius sit et solidius quam radix quod contin-git tum quia agens est efficax, tum quia eius vis magis re-cipitur in ligno et sic magis dispositio quam in radice. Secunda difficultas erat circa materiam, statuuntur tres esse differentiae essentiales febrium sumptae ex triplici subiecto con-stituente essentiam partis similaris. Videtur tamen praeter has differentias alias quasdam esse superaddendas. In primis datur febris synochus sine putredine quae ad nullam ex tribus propositis differentiis potest reduci. Non enim est ephemera quia non accenduntur spiritus, non est hectica quia non accenduntur partes solidae: non est putrida quia in hac febre sanguis non putrescit, sed solum quandam ebullitionem recipit, ergo dabitur quartum genus febris. Accedit dari etiam febrem pestilentem quae pari-ter non videtur posse ordinari ad aliquam ex tribus diffe-rentiis, quia si ad aliquam reduceretur, ad putridam potissimum esset reducenda, sed febris pestilens praeter putredinem habet alium characterem, aliam formam qua distinguitur a putridis. Non igitur erunt tria tantum febrium summa genera. Praeterea si ex eorum diversitate febrium differentiae oriuntur, et merito horum oritur fe-bris humoralis, horum autem sunt et primi et secundi cur sicuti fiunt febres putridae ex primis humori-bus, non dicuntur pariter fieri etiam ex secundis quos secundas humiditates Avicennas vocavit. Pro solutione ut saepius revera absolutam dicendum, quamvis sermo sit de differentiis febrium essentialibus et de differentiis non solum essentialibus sed generalissimis, non possumus constituere novam aliam genera febrium quam iam sunt posita ad quod omnis febris necessario reducitur. Inprimis quantum ~~febris~~ pertinet ad febrem sanguinis est reducibilis ad febrem humoralem, non ad febrem putridam. Ideo nos distinguentes febrem genere semper diximus genus spirituum oriri ephemeram, genus solida oriri hecticam, genus humorum oriri humoralem et non putridam. Humoralem quia febris haec deinde subdividitur in febrem humoralem et non putrescentem sicuti est febris sanguinis et putrescentem sicuti sunt reliquae. Ideo obiectio de feb. sanguinis sine putredine nulla erit, quia haec ordinatur ad febrem humoralem. Similiter dicatur de pestilenti, quia haec cum procedat ab insigni humorum putredine, ideo et ipsa ordinabitur ad febrem humoralem quae si subdividatur, dividatur in febrem non putridam et putridam, ~~[illegible]~~ deinde putridam subdividimus in pestilentem, et non pestilentem, ut haec ergo febris pestilens sit reducibilis et ipsa ad humorales. Eadem sit ratio de secundis illis humiditatibus quae si igneo calore et ipsae afficiantur, efficiant hecticam febrem quae hectica et ipsa solet subdividi prout vel absumitur prima humiditas vel secunda vel tertia. Quare substantia ista secundae humiditates istae non constituant febrem diversam ab Hectica, sed ad Hecticam reducuntur. His genericis differentiis explicatis de temporibus febrium agemus.

Solutio

XI.
De Temporibus febrium.

Ad perfectam curationem febrium non sufficit cognoscere febris essentiam quae definitione fuit iam explicata, nec sufficit pro varia curatione cognoscere varias differentias febr. quas in genere hactenus et proposuimus

Verum

Verum est requiritur ut febrium curandarum partes cogno-scamus. Partes autem febris in unoquoque genere nil aliud sunt quam tempora ipsius febris quae diligenter sunt explicanda nam secundum varietates enim aliter procedamus in initio febr. aliter in augmento aliter in statu aliter in declinatione, accedit quod cognitio temporum feb. confert etiam ad prognosticandum, siquidem ex invasione febr. ex longitudine ex brevitate eius et modo innatandi solemus progno-sticare de futuro cursu febr. Iamque in hoc sermone de temporibus febris talem servabo ordinem, ut in primis temporis notionem ostendam, deinde singulas temporum differentias distincte cognoscere explicabo. Quod ad primum attinet vocis in primis aequivocatio tollenda est, tempus enim bifariam accipi potest physice et medice. Primo modo tempus nil aliud est quam numerus motus secundum prius et posterius, hoc est tempus est mensura motus sic tempus 24. horarum erit mensura solis ab ortu ad occasum moti.
Est enim mensura motus secundum prius et posterius quoniam tempus est mensura cum motu successiva et cum ordine. Tempus vero medicum quia dirigitur non ad scire simpliciter sed ad scire in ordine ad opus, ideo tale tempus ad sanitatem inducendam dirigatur, ut propterea tempus apud medicos nil aliud sit quam mensura totius morbi secundum prius et posterius. Hac ergo ratione tempus ut morbus mensurat, medico erit considerandum.
In omni autem morbo quod tempus est mensurandum duo potissimum requiruntur primo requiritur tempus etc quo morbus mensuratur, iuxta quod di-cimus morbum esse longum aut brevem, similiter partes ipsius principium scilicet augmentum et reliqua dicimus non brevi tempore non longo mensurari. Secundo requiritur ordo quia in omnibus mor-bis sunt plures partes seu plura tempora atque haec non confusa sed ordinata, quia primo est principium inde augmentum et ita de reliquis, Gal. et autore lib. de morb. temp. cap. 1. Ut hinc colligatur morbum non esse substantiam momentaneam, tamen sed tempore mensurabilem. Hoc autem morbi tempus medici dividentes constituunt statuentes morborum tempora esse in primis duplicia, quaedam sunt universalia quaedam particularia.
Tempora universalia ipsius febris sunt quae totius febris processum motum et latitudinem mensurant. Particularia vero sunt quae particularium paroxysmorum et invasionis febris moti-untur. Praeterea haec tempora sive universalia sive particularia sunt 4. ad haec sunt partes, quae talia tempora non mensurat febris incipiunt ut nec statum vel nec augmentum vel declina-Sciendum quod morbus febris ipsa cum sit passio corporis in-nuentis in corpore inveniuntur duo potissimum repugnantia in corpore ut ipse febre affecto, quorum alterum se tenet ex parte rerum secundum naturam et est virtus ipsa. Alterum se tenet ex parte re-rum praeter naturam ut sunt causae et symptomata morbosa. Itaque duo ista nempe virtus ut res naturalis et morbus ut res praeter naturam cum contraria sint simul in uno subiecto consistere nequeunt citra mutuam pugnam citra actionem et passionem ad invicem. Hinc duplex pugna oritur. Altera est inter virtutem et morbum altera vero inter virtutem et symptomata morbum consequentia Cum hic dico de causa quae morbum intelligo morbum ex artis quia nil aliud est quam causa coniuncta et proxima symptomatis Hinc duo tempora orta sunt. Alia capiuntur a pugna naturae et virtutis contra morbum. Alia sumuntur a pugna naturae virtutis contra symptomata et secundum utraque haec tempora consideramus principium augmentum statum et declinationem. Explicatis his differentiis temporum febris, restat quomodo et quando unius cuiusque temporis explicemus, et primo universalium deinde parti-cularium. Quo ad tempora igitur quae in primis capiuntur ex vir-tutis pugna contra morbum, sciendum quod in febribus duplicia sunt. Sunt febres in duplici sunt differentia, aliae siquidem sunt immateriales ut ephemera et hectica, aliae materiales scilicet sunt humorales. Quo ad immateriales spectat consideramus secundum caloris febrilis dictarum febrium, quod vel est spirituum ut in ipsa ephemera vel est partis solida ut in hectica. Itaque erit principium universale ex parte ephemerae quando incipit pugna naturae contra morbum cum sensibili operationum laesione Gal. autore lib. de diff. febr. 2. quod principium se habet latitudinem quamvis in ephemera valde parvam. In hectica vero amplam et magnam ut patet in hac etiam febre potest medicus in principio aliquid operari, de hoc principio esse febris in quo medicus potest operari ea latitudine se loquebatur Hipp.

2 part. Aph. 30 quum dicebat in morborum initiis si quid mo-vendum videtur move. Hoc ergo principium febris in febre diuturna duas continet partes, altera proximior est sanitati a qua primo lapsus est factus quod febrem ipsa. Altera ps huius principii magis accedit ad incidentem aegritudinem, sicut ea quae a augmento et extra, utraque pars est cum sensibili laesione opera-tionum. Aliter principium febris non est pars morbi ut febris, morbus enim non est dispositio praeter naturam a qua procedit operationum laesio quanto to-ti latitudini ipsius febris convenit, ut sit cum sensibili opera-tionum laesione. Sed principium est una pars febris, quare in tali principio adaerat sensibilis operationum laesio. Differunt tamen duae istae partes principii secundum magis et minus, quoniam in prima parte principii febris adest minor laesio in operibus. In secunda vero maior et evidentior. Hinc fit ut plerique febricitantes in initio etsi laesas habeant operationes non tamen eo tempore decumbunt, imo per 2.

3. et dies solent deambulare, at in fine principii laesionem maiorem sentiunt, ut etiam coguntur decumbere, ad quam laesionem respiciens Arist: lib. 5. cap. 5. dicebat, tunc esse morbi principium quando patiens cogitur narrare a consuetis operibus.
Sed cum species generat, cum febris principium duas habeat partes, est a qua namque parte febris debeat medicus incipere numerare dies aegri-tudinis, a primaria parte principii vel a secunda parte id est a sensibili laesione operationum, an potius a die decubitus. Quod cognoscere non parum confert propter criticos dies, propterea quod resolutione scimus nos debere incipere numerationem dierum febris et morborum omnium a sensibili laesione operationum sive iste decumbat sive non. quod si a decubitu potius initium morbi desumamus, contingere posset, ut initium etiam capiamus ab augmento ipso et ita erraremus. Ratio est quia dantur aliqui patientes, qui etsi graviter febricitant, volunt tamen decumbere, nec desistere a con-suetis muneribus, ut in his non possimus citra errorem numerare dies ab ipso decubitu quod fuit et Gal. sententia 4. de dieb. decret. 2. Hinc sanctus potest conciliari Gal. loca contradi-centia, quod quandoque statuit a decubitu numerandos esse dies quandoque a sensibili operationum laesione, citra decubitum. Cum enim vult initium numerandi fieri debere a decubitu, non propterea excludit quia initium morbi non sit sensibilis laesio operationum et sine decubitu, quoniam per decubitum non intelligit actualem decubitum sed potius indigentiam decumbendi propter sensibilem operationum laesionem, quod si quis cum primum sensibile laedi incipit statim ut decumbat, tunc ab actuali hoc decubitu erit incipiendum numerare dierum, quare vero a decubitu non quam decumbitur, sed etiam qua decumbitur fit per sensibilem laesionem operationum, numerant initium dies. Quod si dubiex eo etiam constat, quia potest accipi aliquis patiens debilitatis, qui timentes de futuro malo etsi non aegrotent vel laedantur in suis operationibus solo timore decumbunt, quibus si contingat, ut post duos vel 3 dies vere aegrotent et ullum initium morbi sumere a die decubitus errabunt in inveniendis diebus criticis, et ideo quod Gal. reprobat decubitum actualem, dicamus ab eo non esse sumendum initium innumerandi dies intelligit de eo decubitu qui fit sine morbo et sine sensibili laesione operationum, vel etiam de eo qui fit post sensibilem laesionem operationum post 2 vel 3 dies, ab indigentia decumbendi, sicuti contingere solet in servis et illis qui non sunt sui iuris, qui etsi male se habeant non decumbunt. Principium ergo ut ad rem redeamus totius morbi innatis est quando natura seu virtus a morbo irritata pugnam aggreditur, ex quo pugna operationes sensibiliter laedi in-cipiunt cum indigentia decubitus etiamsi actu non decum-bant. Augmentum vero est quando natura seu virtus adhuc magis irritata a re p.n. agit et magis pugnat, ut ex maioris pugna operationes evidentius laedantur. Status vero est ubi natura seu virtus ad summum est irritata a re p.n. ut vehementissime pugnam aggrediatur et ad summum incrementum perveniat. Declinationis tempus quando natura minus irritatur a re p.n. quia iam capit morbum debellare, febrem superare ut eo tempore mitiora omnia evadant. Si vero haec quatuor tempora usitata consideremus in febre horali erunt praeter haec 4 etiam sumenda ex coctione et cruditate materiae febrilis, et quia in febribus haec saepe contingunt, quia saepius contingunt horales febres quam epidemicae aut Hecticae & absentia hypostasis in ipso lotio ut hac occasione dicendum est, curato quid sit haec hypostasis et ex qua materia fiat, ut ex ea morbi coctionem & cruditatem cognoscere possimus. Hypostasis igitur est excrementum crassum & terrestre digestionis, quod excrementum separatur in sanis corporibus a parte ipsius alimenti, quae simul cum serositate sive lotio in vesicam vehitur & cum eodem lotio permixtum expellitur. In febricitantibus vero hypostasis est pars crassior & terrestrior illius materiae quae exardescit & putrescit febremque facit. Ideo Gal: 1. prog: 46. dicit quod hypostasis in febricitantibus putri proportione quadam respondet sicut enim pars excrementi est crassius separatum in fumore concocto: ita hypostasis in febribus portio est crassior & terrestrior & soluti corporis, hoc est humoris putrescentis, ad differentiam partis vaporosae & fumosae, quae tenuior existens in sensibiliter per cutem vel venatus dissolvitur, pars vero crassior & terrestrior subsidet & simul cum lotio permiscetur. Quam rem ut evidentius comprehendamus supponemus optime cum Hipp. lib. 1. de flat. et Gal: ut 1. & 2. de diff. febr. 17. quod hoc putrescens in febre est instar ligni quod in igne succenditur. Sicut enim lignum dum incipit igniri incipit et cubiculum & vicinas partes calefacere, a pari in feb. cum materia putrescit calidior materia dans partes circumiacentes calefacit & simul corpus versum & quidem ignis & calor cubiculi tandem quaeruntur, quod ad ligna in cinerem mutantur, a pari & materia febrilis & putrida tandem corpus calefacit, donec ad incinerem hoc ipsa perducatur quae cinerulentia nunc cum sit destituta omni humido ut pater et ob id desinunt manere non amplius potest ut subiectum caloris qui exardescens et nunc tempore febris materia delitescat, non secus ac lignum desinit calefacere quum omnino incineratum est nuncsum in hoc exustionis progressu quatuor tempora morborum clare notantur, sicuti ex Gal: etiam habetur 2. de diff. feb. 17. Namque principium exustionis in ipso ligno mit quum lignum igni suppositum exiguam quidam flammam incipit concipere & fumum in primis emittit. Ita humor cum incipit putrescere fumositatem primo emittit, ratione fumositatis vel fiunt rigores vel oscitationes & huiusmodi. Ubi vero itam ignis vicinius agit in lignum agendo ulterius magis illud afficit suo calore ut nedum fumum sed flamternam totius ligni substantiam, ita ut intus et extra est ignitum et ignis tumiditate, et in summo vigore, a pari in febre cum materia sua accensioni instar ligni, tota intus et extra est accensa, et corpus etiam adinuersum et sit igni-tum et calefactum intus et extra, tale tempus erit status et summus vigor ipsius febris. Tandem ubi iam ignis flaconsumpserit totam ligni substantiam intus et extra ut flammam amplius non emittat, nec ignis vestigium amplius con-tineat, sed iam in cinerem tota ligni substantia versa sit: necessarium est ignem extingui quia deest eius pabulum, ideo hoc tempus non solum declinationis, sed intervalli notabile erit. A pari materia febrilis cum per caloris febrilis actio-nem non amplius detineat aliquam fumositatem, sed quia materia putrescebat et reddebatur incipit materia istam suis partibus dissolui ac proinde incinerari seu in cinerem verti, quod tempus erit declinationis et intervalli. Ex quibus clare constat, quod 4 tempora febrium horalium desumuntur ex materiae morbificae cruditate et coctione, ita ut principium sit quando materia morbifica incipit ab externo ca-lore pati, nulla tamen portio cineris eo tempore separatur, idem in febrium initio lotium nullam hypostasin habere feret et continebit. Ergo tempore urinam dicimus urinam esse crudam i. nondum ad incinerationem esse peruentam.

Augmentum vero erit illud quando iam materia ulterius patiens a calore febrili aliquod coctionis vestigium incipit ostendere, et eo tempore portio aliqua fuliginis incipiat separari, quod fuligo permixta cum lotio in notam etiam conspicitur, diminuit tamen, ut iure eo tempore dicemus morbum esse in augmento. Status vero est in quo urinae coctio magis est ma-nifesta, et est quando febrilis calor materiam in quam agit adeo superat, ut incipiat manifestius quaedam sedimenti circumlentia et partes crassiores, ipsius urinae quo tempore in lotio hypostasin et copiosiorem et nitidantiorum observamus, declinatio vero est illud tempus in quo materia febrilis omnino est superata consumpta ac penitus cocta, ut cum remaneat post sui exu-stione materia crassior instar cineris et cineris albicantis et aequalis, hinc fit ut cum in lotio nos observamus hanc hypostasin quae non solum sit copiosa sed sit alba sit aequalis fundumque [illegible] patet esse certissimum indicium decli-nationis et salutis morbi. Sicuti enim cineris in externo igne tum est laudabilis quando amplius non potest igne corrumpi (sicuti sunt carbones) talis autem est quando est alba et aequalis ut sit velut minutissima quaedam farina, a pari idem contingit in materia serosa quae tum optime est consumpta et in-tegram incinerationem adepta albedinem et aequalitatem recipit, ideo facit hypostasin albam levem et aequalem. Haec sunt tempora 4 desumpta ex pugna inter naturam et causam morbosam. Erat altera pugna inter naturam et symptomata ita ut mediante hac pugna 4 pariter tempora oriantur, ut principium sit in quo natura patitur a symptomatibus sed citra resistentiam et reactionem.

Augmentum vero erit, quando symptomata incipit agere in naturam sed cum aliqua resistentia et cum aliqua pugna mutua et ad in-vicem facta. Status vero erit, ubi magna erit actio et reactio symptomatum in naturam et vicissim naturae contra symptomata. Declinatio vero erit quando natura agendo et pugnando superat, quo tempore symptomata incipiunt sensim mitescere propter victoriam naturae et tandem omnino cessare. Hipp. et ita ab [illegible], Tempora vero huius febris a quibus capiuntur non ab aliis quam a ~~[illegible]~~ [illegible] in qua fundatur Hectica febris, Fundatur autem Hectica febris non in primis humoribus qui continentur in venis, sed in 2^is humiditatibus quae membris nutrimentis iam sunt de[illegible] quae humiditates cum tres sint ideo tempora febrium Hecticarum capiuntur a consumptione harum 3. humiditatum. Unde initium usque tamdiu perdurabit, quoad prima humiditas solidorum consumpta fuerit, quae similiter [illegible] iam incipit 2^a, quae humectat [illegible] & [illegible] quam [illegible] vocant & tunc incipit augmentum huius febris. Consumpta hac 2^a humid. [illegible] ad feb. Periodus in feb. [illegible]

Si hodie incipiat hac hora febris, & crastino eadem hora reuertatur, totum hoc tempus periodus vocabitur, ut inter dicta reditus ab eod. in idem. Quantum vero ad diuisionem periodi, periodus duas partes principales habet, in accessionem & re-missionem. Accessio autem subdividitur in princip. accessionis, in magnitudinem, in augmentum & in statum: ita ut accessio qua-tuor istis partibus constet, principio, magnitudine, augmento & statu. Remissio v. subdividitur in duas partes, in declinationem & in integritatem, ut perinde periodus constet sex partibus, princip., magnitudine, augmento, statu, declinatione & integritate. Verum quis obiiciat, si periodus sex istis partibus constat, quod illius tempora non erunt 4 sed 6.
Quod tamen repugnat ei quod diximus de universitate. Facile est hanc obiectionem tollere. Nam tempora haec generalia non sunt 4, non 5, non 6. Statuimus, cum periodum nobis ipsis condicimus, nec loca Gal. in quibus non plura non pauciora proponit sunt contradicentia. Nam si sermo fit sit de periodis febr. intermittentis & continuae febris salubris & [illegible] sermo sit in genere, hac vero tempora particularia in febr. intermittente & in genere a corpore 4 tantum erunt, principii, augmentum, status & declinatio, & ita non distinguuntur a temporib. universalibus. Si vero sermo sit de eisdem periodis [illegible] separatim magis in eis de febrib. intermittentibus, hac vero tempora erunt 6. quia magnitudo [illegible] ipsius principii [illegible] ad princ. potest etiam reduci. Accedit tamen 6tum quod intervallum [illegible] & tempus infebricitationis. [illegible] Si sermo fuerit de periodis in febrib. intermittentibus [illegible] febrem intermittentem accipientes totum circuitum & reditum ab eod. in idem, tempora erunt 6. quia in hoc cir-cuitu continetur etiam intervallum, continetur et magni-tudo quae pars princ. ut partes princ. augmentum statum & declinationem, accedant alia duo, intervallum & magnitudo.
Si vero sermo sit de temporibus periodi febrilis, quod periodus continet tantum tempus febricitationis ita excludens interval-lum quod in hoc non est febris, & hoc non erunt tantum 4 tempora.
[illegible] tempora cognoscuntur ex signis febrilis caloris sive [illegible] [illegible] in [illegible] sive humor ut in [illegible] solita [illegible] Historia. Principium igitur periodi continuae fe-bris.

Periodus duplex

magnit. [illegible] ad princ. [illegible] reduci bris huiusmodi erit totum tempus in quo natura incipit alte-ri & morbum aggredi incipit pugnare. huiusmodi erit in fe-bre intermittente tempus illud in quo patientes corripiuntur horrore, rigore aut frigore. Absolute hoc principio succe-dit 2a pars quia in agitatione notabatur nunc totum illud tempus in quo morbifica natura magis agens contra naturam incipit corpus intus calidius reddere, extra vero artus adhuc frigescunt. Augetur vero erit totum illud tempus in quo calor occupat non solum interiora sed et exteriora sed non aequaliter. Status vero est illud tempus periodi in quo non solum partes omnes intus & extra incalescunt, sed et aequaliter, & in magis & in intensione non ma-gis patiens calore hoc febrili afficiatur, secundum unam partem quam alteram. Declinatio vero est illud tempus in quo calor iam remittit quae remissio magis observatur secundum in-timas partes & cordi proximas quam extimas & remotiores.

Unde sicuti in initio periodi interiora magis calent quam exteriora, ita in fine oppositum contingit, ut magis calant extima quam intima. Intervallum vero in quo de febre intermittentis erit totum illud tempus in quo patiens non febricitat & est illud tempus quod intercedit inter finem declinationis & principium futurae accessionis. Circa haec tempora occurrunt aliquae difficultates.

XIV. De signis quibus cognoscitur an adsit febris et de temporibus signis.

Nunc de febre a posteriori & per sua signa agemus quae signa ad duo possunt dirigi, et talia indicant an fe-bris adsit nec ne in aegro, alia vero febrium tempora tum uni-versalia tum particularia declarabunt, quod igitur ad signa febris per-tinet supponendum est talia signa ex 3plici fonte sumi videlicet ex actione laesa, ex excrementis mutatis, & ex qualitate mutata, discurramus igitur circa singulos fontes. Ex primis occurrunt signa a laesa actione sumpta quae duo potissimum erunt, alterum ab actione vitali arripitur

Ex actione laesa sumitur pulsus et anhelitus.

ut a pulsu, 2um ab ipso anhelitu. Circa primum igitur pulsus in febre pulsus declinabit a naturali statu in tribus, in magnitudine in frequentia & velocitate. Ut propterea ex pulsu ma-giore frequenti & veloci nobis indicatur febrem adesse cum pulsui etiam respiratio semper proportione correspondebit, caliditas externa, utrumq[ue] signum pr[a]eviis declaro, siq[ui]dem pulsus & respira[ti]o iam dicta ea sunt signa q[uae] febris contentiam comitantur. Cum enim statutum fuerit q[uo]d essentia febris nil aliud s[it] q[uam] extraneus calor vel spirituum ut in eph[emer]a vel humorem ut etiam cor alteretur & incendatur, corde a[utem] cum suo catandi hinc extraneum calorem sibi superadditum, temperam[en]tum amittendum recipit beneficio arteriarum q[uae] a cordis s[u]b[stanti]a ori-ginem ducunt: ideo nulli mirum non debet si motus ar-teriarum alteratur, alteretq[ue] ad magnam q[uia] maior ar-teriis ventilandi necessitas, alteretur ad frequentia[m] & velocitatem, si ad hanc maior ventilandi necessitas incurrit ipsi cordi, unde sicuti ad cordis perfrigerium consequitur pulsus parvus rarus & tardus, q[uo]d mirum si ad magnam cordis supercalefactionem contrariae differentiae pulsus oriantur, ut loco parvitatis pulsus succedat magnus & loco pulsus tardi & rari succedat in febre velox & frequens. Ex pulsus ergo magno frequentia & velocitate cognoscimus febrem adesse, merito vero respirationis cum respiratio & ipsa in motu correspondeat pulsui, ideo ex cognitione pulsus magni velocis & frequentis cognoscimus et eas magnae velocis & frequentis. Sed accedebat ~~aliud~~ aliud signum ad ipsam respirationem quia in febre respiratio non solum erat magna fre-quens & velox verum et calidior, ratio e[st] quia cum respiratio ratione quidem aeris s[cilicet] ambientis, ex respiratione vero externa & intensiori & mordaciori occupante totum corpus. Cuius signum est, cum corpora nostra semper sint in perpetuo effluxu & transpiratione, effluxus autem isti qui per cutaneos meatus transpirant sanitatis tempore mites sint suaves & mediocriter calefacti, at febris tempore cum universum corpus plus solito incalescat, omnium horum etiam vapores extranea calore affici, ut ob eam causam effluxus in toto corpore evadant mordaciores, ideo ad tactum nos percipimus in febricitante calorem quendam mordaciorem. Haec autem externa caliditas licet corpus universum in febre occupet, non aequo tamen corpus afficit, sed manifestius se ostendit in corde, ut in fonte caloris, quam in aliis partibus & inter alias partes magis se ostendit in arteriis quae tam a cordis sede oriuntur quam in aliis partibus. Adhuc minus haec caloris mordacitas se ipsam ostendit in venis & adhuc minus in cutaneis partibus. IIII fons signorum desumebatur ab excremento mutato. Excrementum autem mutatum etsi multiplex sit in praesentia tamen lotium potissimum erit spectandum. In febre igitur [illegible] arrepta lotium erit coloratum, coloratum inquam magis quam tempore sanitatis, nec immerito, quia in omni febre massa humoralis quae in venis continetur a calore febrili alteratur. Alteratur autem simul cum humorali massa et massa illa aquosa, serosa & ichorosa, ex qua lotium fit ut propterea lotium a tali calore calorem intensiorem acquirat. Ceterum circa hoc signum advertendum venit pluribus quoque ut in febricitante talis lotii alteratio non appareat quod contingere potest tum ob alias causas tum etiam ob extra occurrentes causas, sed praecipue ob maiorem cruditatem si causa materia pituitosa praecipue fuerit, vel etiam hoc contingit ob obstructas vias. Verum quando sit in [illegible] febris solet ad febrem talis color lotii comitari, ut color correspondeat febrili et externo calori, ob quam causam fit ut Gal. non immerito statuat febrem esse passionem venarum quia in febre contenti humores in venis alterantur. Ceterum hic color lotii [illegible] tum in ipsa agitatiosermo fuerit de febre [illegible] immateriali ex genere ephemera & nec in aquosa substantia: mutatio non erit in contentis, quia febres istae sunt immateriales non dependent ab humoribus, at per humores alteratos contenta alterantur, quare cum in ephemera & hectica vere quae urinales non dependerant ab ipsis humoribus, ideo non praesentarent in lotio mutationem in contentis. Quantum vero sit merito substantiae aquosae & urinalis. Si sermo fuerit de tali aquositate in ephemera nulla prorsus fiat humoribus. 2° quia et unico die durat. Quantum vero ad Signa indicantia febrem in genere maiori ex parte hactetum in hypostasi, sicuti audivimus et de ephemera & hectica, siquidem in humorali febre mutatio lotij observabitur non in colore, nec in hypostasi, quinque in utroque, nonnunquam etiam in mentro. In primis mutatio erit in lotio ~~[illegible]~~ nec humor causans febrem crudus extiterit, ita ut nulla habetur cur Auic. tot signa assignauerit, paucis quae singu-la explicemus. In primis quod cognoscemus statum ipsius febris ex specie febris, quia si ephemera fuerit quis dubitabit statum ipsius propinquum: non enim ultra tres dies perdurat. Si vero putrida extiterit cognoscemus statum esse paulo longin-quiorem, si hectica extiterit longissime fore. Quare ex specie ipsius febris status ipsius innotescet. 2° cognoscemus longitudinem et breuitatem ipsius febris ex motu materiae mor-bificae, quia materia vel est facile mobilis qualis est materia calida et bilio-sa, quia et ratione caloris et ratione tenuitatis facile est mobilis, ut ex hac materia febrem facientes arguamus morbum fore breuem et consequenter statum fore propinquum. Unde febres hae febris biliosae vel in 7° terminantur vel ad sum-mum in 14. Nec ob aliam causam nisi quia materia faciens hanc febrem ratione qua tenuis est et calida et facile succendi-tur et cito incineratur. Si vero ex altera parte materia facien-tis febrem fuerit difficile mobilis, fuerit crassa et viscida, cuiusmodi est materia frigida vel melancholica, ex hoc iam arguemus febrem longam esse futuram, consequenter ipsius statum non esse propinquum. Hinc est ut febres quotidianae nec quae a pituita dependent, quartanae et quae a melancholia fiunt sunt longae quia materia quae succenditur ratione qua frigida est non ita facile absumitur et ratione qua est crassa et terrestris diutius sustinet accensionem, propterea istae febres habent statum satis longinquum. 3tio cognoscemus febris longitudinem et breuitatem ex ipsa virtute quae in febribus est vel valida vel debilis. Si valida fuerit oportet considerare an febris sit lethalis vel salubris. Si febris fuerit lethalis cum virtute de-bili iudicium erit haec virtus breuitatis febris, quia ex supposito quod febris sit lethalis virtus non potest diu hanc febrem sustinere sed succumbit. Si eadem virtus fuerit debilis adhuc magis in eodem morbo lethali adhuc citius succumbet. Si vero virtus valida fuerit et febris sa-lubris considerare oportet et speciem febris et motum ipsius quia etsi in qualibet specie febris salubris et quam breuissime terminat febrilis, virtus haec fortis superatura febrem indicabunt febris brevitatem et consequenter status propinquitatem, quare fit ut febres acutae sint breviores et propinquiores in iuvenibus ratione aetatis. Si vero aetas et aer fri-[illegible] ratione frigiditatis, tum ex parte aetatis, tum ex parte aeris generantur et multiplicantur humores frigidi, crassi, immobiles et coctioni magis rebelles, ex quorum putre-factione si febris contingat, sine dubio quod ratione humorum non nisi diuturna esse poterit. Contra in aetate iuveniin febris talis fuerit consequentia non solum intemperie calida verum et coniuncta cum materia calida. Ut ergo utriusque febris haec acuta sit censenda et propterea hoc statum propinquum, quod vero hic pulsus magis declinauerit a dicta vigore, frequentia et velocitate, non erit febris longior et consequenter status remotior, et ratio est quia talis pulsus consequitur ad intemperiem calidam quidem sed remissionem et ad materiam adhuc minus calentem, ut propterea haec febris oriatur longior. Capiuntur et cetera signa ab accessionibus, circa quas duo occurrunt consideranda, initium scilicet et tempus ipsius, quantum ad initium, fe-bris omnis vel inuadit cum rigore frigore et horrore, vel sine his. Si cum rigore et alijs inuaserit considera-re oportet an hic rigor longus sit vel breuis. Si etiam sine rigore et alijs iudicium erit breuitatis febris. Sed [illegible] tamen intelligendum est de febribus humoralibus.

At differunt hecticae quae et immunes a rigore et alijs tamen est longa. Hinc vero erit si humoralis fuerit quia indicabitur ex hoc signo febrem non continuam, quae sit breuis, breuior intermittente. Si vero febr. cum rigore inuaserit vel frigore vel alijs, talis rigor vt breuis erit vel lon-gus. Si breuis fuerit indicabit febris et breuitatem qa initium eius talem febrem a modica materia dependere modica a. materia cum cito absumatur ideo breuitas rigoris febr. breuitatem significabit, & consequenter status propinquitatem.

Contra vero si rigor longior extiterit, febrem diutur-nam esse significabit, quoniam hic longus rigor fit a materia copiosa, a materia crassiore, quoniam copia & crassities diu obsistit calori exurenti [illegible] idcirco fiet fe-bris longa, consequenter rigor hic longus nobis significabit statum talis febris non esse propinquum. Circa hunc ipsum ri-gorem consideramus etiam vehementiam & remissionem ipsius, quoniam si vehemens fuerit indicabit breuitatem fe-bris, si vero remissior longitudinem. Nam rigor vehemens fit a nimia horum tenuitate & mobilitate, qui autem humor putrescens est tenuior eo citius absumitur.
Rigor vero remissus & lentus arguit materiam crassio-rem & minus mobilem, quae inter diu obsistit suae consumptioni, propterea rigoris vehementia propinquitatem status testificabitur, remissio vero longinquitatem. Accedit tamen aliud signum desumptum ab hora accessionis & in-uasionis circa quod consideramus an inuasio febr. eandem horam seruet quam repetit, vel potius non. Et si non seruat eandem inuasionis horam, an non seruet qa an-ticipat, vel potius quia postponat. Si febris eandem hora accessionis seruauerit nobis significabit febris longitudinem, & materiae febrilis maiorem resistentiam, quoniam indicat hoc materiae stabilitatem constantiam & uniformitatem. Ali-ter non seruaret eandem horam. Si vero accessio fe-bris anticipauerit, & ea febris quae anticipat vel erit longior prioribus accessionibus & valentior, vel erit breuior & remissior. Si accessio febr. anticipauerit cum

Si prim. fuerit indicabit breuitatem febris, sed febris lethalis quæ cito ad interitum terminabitur. At si febris ordinem non seruet virtute valida existente, indicabit longitudinem potius, ob eam dicta. Accedit et signum a᷑ in symptō acceptum: Symptōa. n. potissimum vigent in statu morbi quia pro id tempus ꝯsigna o insignis ppria quod diutius in febre apparuerit hoc vehementia symptōm non magis arguunt statum in longinquum, ut v. g. in febre biliosa in iuuene ꝯstis temporis in qua rationabiliter deent valde stare dolores, vigiliæ, sitis & hum. Si hæc inter initia non appareant indicium erit statum non longinquum ideo dicebat Hipp. 2. aph. 30. quod circa initium & finem febrium omnia sunt imbecilliora, in statu vero fortiora. Aliud signum sumitur a᷑ modo quo febris terminatur. Si namque in febre ꝯtingat aliqua evacuatio siue p alui siue p sudorem, siue p fluxum sanguinarium, siue plurimum ex istis fluxibus, non indicabitur breuitas febr. non longitudo. Si non apparuerint erunt signa symptomatica indicantia longitudinem & ꝯsequ. statum longinquum. nae. In febrib. enim quanto citius lotium ostenderit coctionem tanto febrem breviorem significabit, et consequenter statum propinquiorem. Quanto vero diutius haec coctionis signa defue-rint, tanto febris longior indicabitur, et consequenter status significabitur remotior. At in febribus lethalibus in quibus loco coctionis fit corruptio naturae, dicendum quod haec corruptio quanto citius in lotio apparuerit, tanto erit febris brevior sed ad interitum terminabitur. Sunt autem signa corruptionis naturae tria, quod ut haec natura vel integre est corrupta vel diminute, et si diminute vel haec corruptio erit simulata cum colore lotii ad nigredinem vergente vel non. Si haec corruptio naturae fuerit in primis diminu-ta quemadmodum contingit quando color lotii ad nigredinem vergit, cum antea esset laudabilis, indicabit talem febrem pati-entem sensim deducere ad interitum, quia hic color lethalis est. Si praeter hunc colorem accedat etiam nebula suspen-sa nigrum coloris nigri erit iudicium non solum diminutae corruptionis naturae, sed etiam manifestae, consequenter hoc signum febrem indicabit non modo lethalem, sed cito ad interitum terminaturam. Tandem si nedum substantia nigra enatat, et praeter hunc colorem nigrum contentum est nigrum sit et in fundo etiam residerat erit iudicium perfectae corruptionis naturae et propterea indicabit febrem hanc adhuc citius ad interitum terminaturam. Haec sunt signa quibus cognoscimus in febrib. statum ipsorum et sequuntur reliqua tempora. Post signa indicantia tempora universalia febris, superest ut ad ea etiam descendamus, quae dirigantur ad nuscam febris tempora particularia.
Siquidem in morbis omnibus et febribus salubribus quoniam sit varietas accessionum ipsarum, incipiunt principium accessionis, augmentum, status et declinatio, quorum temporum cognitio cum ad curam sit necessaria praesertim in admini-strando cibo neve de illis agendum, quandoquidem in principio brum audeamus. In declinatione vero quod tempore non morbum supera-vit, tuto cibum exhibere possumus. Etsi si opus fuerit [multum] aliquid exhibere numquam in accessionum initio id licet faciemus sed in declinatione ob rationem oppositam. Ideo utile erit futurum ei medico cognoscere tempus declinationis status augmenti et principii. Signa igitur indicantia initium accessionis plurima sunt omnia tamen ex tribus fontibus veniunt petenda, videlicet ex laesa actione, ex qualitate mutata et excremento mutato. Quo ad signa sumpta a laesa actione primo occurrit pulsus qui in initio invasionis contrahitur [minor] et parvus observatur [?] quia talis contractio ~~primo~~ in pulsu eo tempore ut ob copiam eorum vaporum quae a dicta materia elevantur ut calorem naturalem suffocent undique concentrant, merito eius con-contractionis eum ad extremas partes per consuetudinem expandendo non potest sicut ad tactum pulsus eo tempore parvus admodum observatur contractus et concentratus plurimum.

Cognoscitur secundo initium accessionis ex inaequalitate pulsus inaequalitatibus quae signum certum est omnibus febribus humoralibus, consistit autem inaequalitas haec pulsus in principio accessionis in hoc, quod videlicet systole seu contractio arteriae ce-lerior sit in suo motu diastole seu dilatatione vero arteriae.
Causa autem huius inaequalitatis haec est: tempore namque in febris ini-tio maior est necessitas expurgandi fuliginum et vaporum qui eo tempore copiose elevantur ab humore putrescente, quam sit necessitas [ventilandi] caloris excedentem, in initio accessionis calor adhuc vel parum vel parum aut nihil exces-sit a naturali statu: ut ob id parva videtur necessitas ipsum ventilandi. Contra vero eo tempore magna est copia vaporum [?] suffocantium calorem [naturalem] et ob id calor ita non simul ter oppressus hoc tempore magnam habeat necessitatem expurgandi expellendi copiosos istos vapores et ideo per systolen seu contractionem arteriae tales vapores expurgantur, per dia-stolen vero caloris excessus ventilatur, inde systole evadit celerior ipsa diastole, ut ex hac pulsus inaequalitate cogno-scamus accessionis initium ad differentiam augmenti et stamagis urget excessus caloris, quare in statu maior mixfrigentia diastoles quam ipsius systoles. In fine vero accessionis imminuitur celeritas ipsius systoles, & celeritas diastoles adhuc permanet. Hoc n. tempore magis est caliditas febrilis in attractione aeris refrig. & eventantis caloris, necessitas expurgandi vapores & fuligines, ob id in decli-natione adest pariter inaequalitas pulsus, sed non inaequalitas vero quia diastole est celerior ipsa systole. II. Indicatur prin-

Ex colore cutis cipium accessionis ex colore totius cutis, veluti cinericio plumbeo & mortificato, ut ita dixerim, amittit enim eo tempore floridum & consuetum colorem patiens ipse.

Quod signum contingit ~~et~~ quandam flavum ob caloris commutationem una cum ipso sanguine. Unde sicuti ex presentia sanguinis quibus est cum copia spirituum permixti color floridus oritur in partibus omnibus corporis. Ita per eiusdem sanguinis absentiam per recessum spirituum et concentrationem, partes externae & cutaneae cum sanguinis communicati veluti tristi-tes mortificantur, ut loco floridi coloris plumbeus succedat, qui color in dictis partibus extimis potissimum contingit, quoniam hae partes sunt longinquiores a fonte caloris. In fe-bribus etiam istis humoralibus quae sunt manifestae [illegible] nationes ut solum ex colore opposito iudicabitur initium et ex frigore narium partium. Unde quo tempore febris invadit extremitas nasi frigescit, auricularum et ungues et frigidiores evadunt, & quamdiu hoc frig. occupaverit dictas partes, tamdiu incrementum erit accessionis et in princ. Cum vero eaedem partes tepere incipiunt calore aliquo
p. n. concipere erit initium augmenti, cum vero eaedem adhuc ad calorem ascendunt erit longissimum augmentum, cum idem corpus patientis totum intus et extra calore febrili ma-neat, statum habemus. Cum vero calor incipit re-mittere secundum praecordia & partes intimas corporis augeri vero secundum extremitates pedes nempe & manus cum Hipp. manifestissimum erit indicium declinationis accessionis. Nam sicuti in princ. partes externae frigescunt internae a calore, sic totum oppositum in declinatione contingit, cum vero te-

An febris sit in declinatione, nos interrogare oportebit patientes, si partes valde incalescant quam antea, & sentiunt interiora & praecordia paulo remissius quam antea, si hoc contigerit declinationis erit iudicium. Praeterea indicabitur initium accessio-nis ex pigritia & tarditate motus, & ex distensione quadam secundum totum corpus & praeterea ex oscitationibus supervenientibus quae omnia signa quasi contingunt circa initium accessionis febrilis, a qua vapores qui elevantur exitum quaerentes solent ad su-periora ascendere ad os quia ibi inveniunt vias latiores ut possint expurgari, unde tunc observabunt patientes oscitare, quibus dicti vapores expelluntur. Si vero iidem vapores diffundant per alias partes corporis in quibus non adsunt viae istae latae & amplae, tunc sua praesentia afficientes & molestantes virtutem expultricem, causant ut distetionem in toto corpore vel pigritiem quandam omnium partium, adnunc etiam principium accessionis indicabitur ex quadam patientis pronitate in vomitum, quae contingere potest: solet enim materia febrem efficiens raptim deferri ad ventriculum.
Indicabitur praeterea principium accessionis ex quadam propensione in somnum quae non erit profundior quam minus & utrique cau-satur ab eisdem causis sola magis differentibus nempe ex vaporibus frigidioribus & humidioribus ascendentibus cerebrum & ipsum occupantibus. Sic enim ab illis cerebrum plus aequo refrigeratum solet ante principium febris. Indicatur quoque principium accessionis ex gravitate quadam sermonis, ut patientes in initio paroxysmi vix aut cum difficultate loquantur, quod contingere non solum ratione supervenientis somni non tempore quod verum etiam quod multas humiditates elevatas & allatas ad musculos epiglottidis & nervos ipsius linguae, ut talia membra oppleta fiant inepti ad movimentum linguarum. Praeterea indicabitur initium accessionis ex rigore et horripilatione quae utraque fiunt ob effusionem materiae febrilis super la-certos & potissimum circa ipsum dorsum & spatulas. Secundum enim has partes percipiunt quibus facti sunt de rigore & fri-gore

gere, et ideo quia istae partes quum in axe sunt nervosae, ac quin & sensu magis sensitivae, ut facilius ut sentiant noxam ipsi dictam iam illatam. Secunda causa est ob sedem singulorum morborum febrilis, quia in febribus istis solet, circa illas par-tes residere, In ea n. regione transit vena cava & arteria aorta a quibus haec materia latitat & continetur ob propinquitatem ad dictas partes dorsum & spatulas ma-gis inducit rigorem & horrorem quam in aliis partibus. Indica-tur tertia ex commotione membrorum corporis initium accessionis propter copiosos vapores membris sensibilibus comtes non solum ac iis contingit quibus copiosa aqua frigida super dor-sum proiicitur. Hi enim veluti commoventur & agitantur.
Quaecunque autem sit causa frigoris, rigoris, horripilationis & inaequalitatis sive ut docebimus, & longe aliter quam Gal.
& alii senserunt, Interim curandi methodum genera-lem febrium tradam quae non solum febribus sed et aliis morbis servire potest.

tractavimus, nunc superest ut ex praemissa cognitione febrium in genere ad curationem etiam generalem accedamus, Verum quia curatio alia habetur ex sola rerum observatione, quam emgeneralis vero quam medici rationales sequuntur, Postrema omnia consultius, quia utroque innititur curae vero haec est empi-in ea iure insistimus. Nos autem cogamur in curandis fe-bribus suis speciebus idem immutabiliter saepe repetere, decre-vimus rationem quandam generalem curandi proponere, quae quilibet unusquisque facile poterit etiam applicare & febrium specificis differentiis & aliis etiam morbis omnibus. A definitione igitur huius methodi curatricis exordientes suppo-

Si materia valida est in agendo indicat validum aux. si minus est gradu Eadem quia est in maiori copia non solum evacuare per validum auxilium, sed in maiori copia non solum sanguinis evacuatio debilis auxilii administrata, verum etiam in minori copia. Sic n[amque] omnia ad invicem proportionalia.

Circa hanc ipsam materiam dum consideramus actionem in-tam, vel hoc non est indicari auxilium curatorium, quia non de actu est laesio sed praeservatorium, ut actu fiat, quia actio imminens & futura & ipsa duplex esse est, vehemens scilicet & remissa, utraque indicabit auxilium evacuans sed servat: differenter tamen quia vel actionis imminentis validae indicabitur auxilium evacuans praeservat: in magna copia, si vero haec actio futura debilis & remissa sit actura, indicabit auxilium evacuatorium debi-le & in parva copia evacuans, de hoc indicante & his indicationibus loquebatur et Hipp. 1. aph. 3. ubi loquitur de habitu athletico in quo erat ingens & insignis sanguinis plenitudo quae tamen plenitudo nondum actu laedebat, sed erat imminens ut actu laederet, quia ipsius vel imminebat ut virtutis suffocatio vel alicuius vasis disruptio ut notat Gal. in com. iubebat Hipp. prae-servandi ut hunc habitum statim solveremus h.e. ut occurramus ingenti plenitudini, adhibentes auxilium evacuans & in magna copia quod auxilium erat praeservatorium & non curatorium.

XIX. Circa hanc eandem materiam actu morbificam duo considerabamus. Primum attinebat ad ipsius essentiam, alterum v[ero] ad ea quae essentiam consequuntur. Primo essentiam eius considerabantur eius materiam ipsius ut v.g. an sit vel flatulenta vel corpulenta, & si corpulenta an sanguinea, an pituitosa, an alterius generis & generis sed erat dicebamus ab hac eius essentia oriri quod agentis: one in auxilium iuvans, veluti materia flatulenta morbosa indicabat auxilium discutiens, quam materia humorosa & corpulenta indicabat auxilium evacuans sensibiliter & pro diversitate talis humorosae eius variabatur et materia talis auxilii iuvantis, quam si peccabat materia sanguinea non solum in-dicabat hic evacuationem, sed evacuationem sanguinis

Ma[teri]a flatulenta indicat discutiens.

Ma[teri]a corp[ulen]ta evacuantem sensibilem cum materia cum materia erat vel v. s. vel cucurbitulis ut hirudines. Quoniam si parvam materiam distans a multo sanguine hec indicabitur: quod evacuans sed et auxilium evacuantis per aut v. s. vel cucurbitulas, vel hirundines, quia ista sanguinem tantum evacuat, sed erit medicina alterativa tra-hens purgantem humorem ex non medicina purgans. Similiter ex altera parte non consideramus amplius naturam materie morbifice, sed potius quod hanc naturam consequuntur tamen ex contingentium natura non indicabitur medicina amplius quid agendum, sed potius certa ad ista agendi, sed in quo consistit hec certa ad-ministrandi ratio. Consistit in hoc ut iuvans auxilium: iuvandi extra errores administretur. Administramus autem extra erro-rem quotiescumque ... constat in quo quanto medicina sit evacuatio et quem locum ... sit facienda. Quo tempore eadem sit administranda et denique quomodo. Quod ... cognoscere, mum igitur de his ex quibus cognoscimus quantum agendum sit. Proximum quantum agendum et reliqua indicari ab iis quae contingunt naturae materie. Que sunt illa ... actio ipsius in corpore humanum patiens. Circa autem hanc actionem consideramus duo: primo ipsius materie in agendo, 2o eiusdem virtutem in resistendo in patiendo. Utrumque utrique, eo quod tempore ipsum in quo hec materia agit vel patitur. Si consideramus virtutem agendi ... materie dignotionis, nam ista, ista actio aut est et valida et debilis, et aut intensa et remissa. Ut valida actio oriatur ex materia mor-bosa in magna copia peccante: debilis vero materie minor a-ctio oritur ab eadem materia in minori copia peccante. Namque actiones omnes geminae, agunt materia, ut agunt, tamen validius agunt, quia sunt fundatae in maiori quanto: remissius vero agunt quia in minori quanto sunt fundatae. Propterea materia mor-bifica, quanto erit copiosior, tanto vehementius in corpore agit: quanto in minori copia, non remissius agit. Ex hac materie actione vehementi et debili indicatur non solum auxilium magnum et debile sed auxilium evacuandum non in maiori non in minori copia. Ideo Gal: 9 Meth: 5 in febre synocha ex vehementi plenitudine sanguinis orta dicebat non solo sanguinem non evacuandum sed non evacuandum magno auxilio et in magna copia dicit eo quod in hac febre sanguis redundat, indicat auxilium evacuans sanguinem eo quod actio sanguinis ... intensa, indicatur non evacuandum magno et vehementi auxilio sicuti v. s. incipientes repletionum utrum tanquam partis determinatae. Unde ex tali venae sectione totum corpus inanitur, consuetaque evacua-assuetus habere fluxum sanguinis menstruum per haemorrhoidas, et hunc talis consueta evacuatio supprimatur, tunc res hic suppo-sitionis corpus totum repletum, sed haec repletio totius non proprie in-dicabit venae apertionem in quacumque parte corporis indifferenter, sed illius venae apertionem cum ea pars repleta inanietur et evacuetur, ideo haemorrhoidas erunt aperiendae, quia per hanc partem evacuatio facta, non solum pars haec inanitur, sed cum ipsa totum est corpus. Si vero corpus totum ita sit repletum ut illius repletio sit indagandus, tunc nos poterimus quamcumque venam corporis quae nobis erit oblata aperire. Causa ex Gal. cum sanguis in venis continuatur et per quamcumque venam factam corpus totum ab hoc sanguine redundante inaniri potest. Quemadmodum contingit in corpore iuvenis, optime carnosa sanguinei temperamenti et plethorici. In hoc enim sanguis et redundabit in toto corpore et non redundabit circa alicuius partis. Sed cur est quod in plethora (Questio) in hac plethorica dispositione, in hac plenitudine totius corporis quam indagamus nos potius secamus venam cubiti quam alias venas. Si potest evacuatio fieri per quamcumque venam. Ratio est in promptu, quia dum vena aliqua est aperienda, illam de- (Solutio) onis. Cum huiusmodi venae sint venae cubiti, ideo has ma-gis quam alias eligimus. Accedit et aliud emolimentum, quia hae venae cum sint propiores epati fonti sanguinis, ideo in magna plethora, ubi alius est synochus, magis debemus secare venam cubiti quam alias, quia per has venas citius totum corpus inanitur et percipitur ipsum epar refrigerari sed quod est per alias venas idem non multum per hoc est falsum sed citius per has ~~tardius~~ vero per alias. Si vero ex altera parte sanguinis plenitudo pareat in toto sed in parte determi-nata, nobis indicabit locum in quo vena erit aperienda. Unde si repletio sit res capitis, vena capitalis erit aperienda, nominamque cubiti quam cephalicam vocant. Si pareat sanguinis res epatis, vena epatica erit aperienda, namque basilica destillatoris. Si pareat sanguinis in utraque parte in capite scilicet et epate indicabit, ex hac plenitudine est secanda vena communis utriusque partis et est vena cubiti quam communem vocant. Postremo

Virtus in g[e]n[er]e q[uo]m[od]o sumitur apud H[ippocratem] | terna cum Virtus ex Hipp[ocratis] sententia consideretur et in merito partis spirituosae i. spirituum, in merito carnosae substantiae & solidarum Gal: ad textum 11 Aph[orismorum] 3. Tertio v[er]o considerat[ur] ratione aetatum q[uod] in senili aetate est debilis, in iuvenili robusta.

Virtus sec[undum] aetates | Idem parvus dicendum & similia virtus erit consideranda. Ut exordiamur a virtute generaliter sumpta, videlicet pro ut est sec[undu]m naturam, haec indicabit auxilium in tali conservans.

Virtus q[uo]m[od]o et c[ontr]a morbu[m] q[uo]d indicet. | Indicat in tali, ad differentiam morbi, qui indicat curatorium auxilium, indicat auxilium in tali conservandum ad differentiam morbi & q[uia] conservatio fit a simili. Quod est simile virtuti alterum est. Ideo virtus vero q[uae] est sec[undu]m naturam, consequitur indicans sui conservationem, non aliud indicabit quam sibi alterum, q[uia] solum illud conservat. Specifica a. indicatio primae virtutum oritur ex virtute specifice considerata.

XXI | Unde virtus si consideretur primae substantiae spirituosae non solum indicabit auxilium conservans sed auxilium simile. Et cum substantia tenuior sit, cum spiritus tenuissima sit substantia, ideo rationibus q[uae] est sec[undu]m naturam alterum indicabit et quod conservat, sed vero non solum est sec[undu]m naturam, verum est et talis virtus fundata in substantia tenuissima qualis est spirituum, ideo indicabit aliquantum tenuissimum. Et proportio servetur inter ipsum indicans & suum auxilium. Hinc est q[uod] in virium resolutione, in lypothymia & animi defectu propter resolutos spiritus non utimur non solum alterum sed alterum tenuissimum quoniam ipsum vinum q[uo]d citius magis restaurat resolutos spiritus.

In merito vero eiusdem virtutis prout recipitur in solidis in substantia indicabitur auxilium alimentale sed solidius & crassius, sicuti merito substantiae mediae & carnosae mediocre alterum inter tenue & crassum indicabitur. Item et virtutis prout indicat quid agendum. Tamen virtus in dicta si consideratur ut valida & robusta est et tempore ut in aetatis contingit, tunc quo sui conservatio indicabit quantum agendum h[oc] e[st] copiosum alterum: semper vero agendo si virtus fuerit robusta potius tum indicabit auxilium a morbo primo indicatum: Et si ratione morbi v. g. magni magna egeamus sanguinis evacuatione, virtus si in hoc morbo robusta fuerit similiter copiosam sanguinis sang. missionis, quia poterit obstinum robur sustinere sanguinis misignum sang. missionis. Si vero fuerit debilis potius prohibebit. Deinde circa hanc ipsam virtutem considerare oportet subiectum in quo ipsa fundatur, et per quod tanquam per instrumen-tum ipsa agit et operatur, conveniet ea ad agendum ipsa temperatura, quae cum virtus immixta suas exerceat operationes propter eam temperaturam, hanc cum possit naturalis et praeter naturam. Si naturalis fuerit, sui custodiam indicabit per similia. Si vero vitiosa et praeter naturam extiterit, sanguinis in-dicabit auxilium corrigens, et in contrarium alterans. Sicuti Gal. ait [illegible] 12. Meth. cap. 5. Eadem virtus va-riatur et pro varietate aetatis. Aetas autem communis vel augendi vel decrescendi vel status. Virtus in aetate augendi non solum indicabit auxilium conservandum, sed et augens.

De hac loquebatur Hipp. 1. aph. 13. cum dicebat, quod qui crescunt plurimum habent caloris innati, ac proinde plurimo egent alimento. Eadem virtus in aetate ipsius status in qua solida ad summum incrementum pervenerunt, indicabit auxilium conservans non augens, ad dissipationem praeservativum. Eadem de-nique virtus si consideretur in aetate decrescentium, non per [illegible] senectute, indicabit et ipsa auxilium alimentale conservandum, sed ad dissipationem status indicabit auxilium conservandum in minori copia exhibitum, sed vicibus repetitis: ita ut eadem cibi copia quae in statu conveniet semel exhibita, nunc conveniat in senectute, at non bis exhibita, sed ter, partitis nempe vicibus. Et ratio quia in senec-tute virtus debilior reddita facilius gravatur et cogit modicum alimentum quam copiosum. Eadem virtus, cum in qualibet aetate summa aetatum [illegible] et corporis non possit, et robusta et imbecillis, indicabit modum agendi, ut si robusta extiterit, et res morbi requirant v.g. missio sanguinis per venae sectionem, apposita vena secari duplici mo-do, scilicet foramine vel amplum vel angustum, hunc modum [illegible] dabit virtus debilis et robusta, quia si robusta fuerit, indicabit fieri per amplum foramen: si vero debilis, requirat potius angustum. Et ratio est quia per foramen angustum minor fit [illegible] ac spiritum resolutio, maior vero per latum. Eadem virtus ut non solum Atque haec pro compendio dicta sunt de febribus curandis in genere. — Ab hinc cognitionis febr. hactenus tractita ad differentias et species eius descendamus, quae cum tres fuerint proposita, Ephemera, humoralis et Hectica, primo occurrit ut de Ephemera agamus, tum quia ordine tractationis alijs est prior, tum ut ipsa cognitu nec non et curatu. Quoniam cum simplicissima sit ad sui cognitionem et curam paucioribus vtatque reliquarum differentia. Circa Ephemeram autem eadem veniunt ab-solvenda quae absoluta fuerunt etiam in febre generatim accepta. Primo huius febr. essentia in primis assigna-

A nomine ipsius exordiamur. Febris autem haec et Ephemera et diaria vocatur ex Gal. 4 aph: 55. et 9. M. 2. Talis autem accepit nomen a tempore quo perdurat quia unica die solet terminari, ut diaria merito nuncupetur vel Ephemera nomine desumpto, ut quidam dicunt a quodam animali Ephemero vocato quod vita per ~~[illegible]~~ unicum tantum diem perdurat.
Utcumque sit de nomine ad essentiam ipsius accedamus, cuius autem essentia nobis innotescet, si 3 explicaverimus.

Cum subiectum febr. sit corpus humanum, cuius essentia autem ex 3 duntur postmodum humores & solida, vel eque consumuntur ac-cendunt, quod contingit, quando externum calorem suscipimus a superaliter factis humoribus vel solidis. Ephemera itaque est febris spirituum, et in ea tales spiritus primario accenduntur non autem secundario, & ratio est quia si Ephemera debet esse morbus primarius spirituum qui accenduntur, non sit accensus in fieri, neque accensio non dependeat ab accensione humorum vel solidorum sed oportet ut eorum accensio sit in facto esse. Est autem in facto esse quando primario & independenter accenduntur. Sic igitur Ephemera est accensio spirituum eo modo quo diximus, ulte-rius quorundam, quorum spirituum accensio sit. Nam spiritus quidam sunt influentes & quidam implantati. Spiritus influens sedem suam habet in corde, qui ideo influens dicitur quia est in con-tinuo motu in assiduo fluxu a corde in reliquas partes per quem fluxum singulis partibus vitam conservat & fovet. Alter spiritus est complantatus & dicitur respective situs in quovis parte corporis. In febre Ephemera utraque spiritus accenduntur. Nam si febris est morbus totius, necessarium est ut spiritus quilibet in toto corpore accendatur, alioquin non esset febris morbus totius. Quamvis autem utraque spiritus in Ephemera accendatur, non tamen utrique primarie & eque affecti accenduntur, sed non primario accenduntur spiritus influ-ens, nonnunquam vero implantatus, si namque fiat febris Ephemera propter iram, quia ira est passio cordis, ideo haec febris de-bebit ab accenso spiritu vitali ~~primario accensi~~ princi-paliter affecto, reliqui vero spiritus implantati in aliis partibus accenduntur quidem sed gratia spiritus influentis primario censi. Nonnunquam oppositum contingit, ut implanta-ti spiritus primitus accendantur, deinde eorum gratia spiritus in-fluentes, quando si ob vigilias, ob studia, sitim & hujusmodi causas accendantur spiritus animales ut eorum accensio codicatur, fiunt haec febris vere Ephemera, sed cordi secunda-rio affecto, cerebro vero primario. Haec de essentia vera Ephemera.

Quantum ad causas efficientes, hae istae multiplices sunt ut ab Avicenna 22. recensentur, quas arripit ex nimio labore, ex corporis nimia inanitione, ex tristitia ex huomnes in hoc generali conveniant, quod spiritus calefaciant.

Ex distinctione igitur ce calef: spiritus, colligimus ~~nunc~~ determinatum fore earum quod ab ante proponimus, nam quandoque ea ista calefactiva vel interna est vel extra corpus. Si interna fuerit vel actu calefacit, vel potentia, si actu calefaciat fit Epilepsia ex nimia vicinia ad ignem, vel ex balneo aereo plus aequo calefacto, Si vero ea calefactiva potentia calefacit, fit Epilepsia ex ebrietate ex crapula ex cruditate & similibus, quae ex cibo & potu procedunt, quae singula non possunt spiritus inflammare, nisi reducantur calid. de potentia ad actum deductum. Si vero ea calefactiva interna potius fuerit talis calefaciat vel cum motu vel sine motu. Si ca-lefecerit cum motu vel hic motus ad corpus attinebit, vel ad animam vel ad utrumque. Si ad corpus attineat talis motus vel est tamen internus tantum externus. Si internus fit Epilepsia ex nimia inanitione, maciatio quae fit per motus intus existentis, sicut hic ira fuerit sudor sive sanguis &. Si vero hic motus externus fuerit fit Epilepsia ex cursu, ex equitatione, navigatione & similibus, quae o-mnes motus ad corpus pertinent. Si vero motus ad animam attineat vel erit a centro ad circumferentiam vel econtra a circumferentia ad centrum vel mixtus. Si motus fuerit ad ipsum centrum fit Epilepsia ex tristitia ex angustia ex cogitatione curis & similibus. Nam per dictas passiones animae spiritus vitales concentrantur & concentrati & uniti plus aequo incalescentes fortius Epilepsiam faciant. Si vero ~~[illegible]~~ econtra moveantur a centro ad circumferentiam fit Epilepsia ex nimio gaudio cum hoc enim spiritus cum impetu a centro ad circumferentiam moventur. Si vero motus iste animae mixtus fuerit, ex ~~[illegible]~~ utroque fit Epilepsia ex odio, ira & timore. Nam in istis passionibus spiritus mixto quodam motu moventur, nunc ad centrum nunc ad circumferentiam. Hinc est quod qui irascuntur to & mixto solet ephemera oriri. Si vero ea calefaciat calefa-ciat sine motu, ut calefaciat per se ut patet. Si per se calefaciat oritur febr. ephemera ex bubone. Nam bubo tum tumor sit per se calidus facit ephemeram per se calefaciendo. Si v[ero] per accidens causa ista calefaciat oritur ephemera ex cutis densitate & stipsi. Nam stipsi cutis condensata v. g. ab ex-terno frigore non est ea per se calefactiva sed prohibendo consuetam caloris transpirationem, corpus totum calefacit.

Si vero calefactio citra motum oriatur ephemera ex nimio ocio & nimia quiete, iste sunt ni fallor omnes cause calefacien-tes que possunt febr. ephemeram causare in ordinem redacte, ut facile sit singulas ad proprios fontes ordinare. Dum ut cognoscam qua ratione singule conveniant ad ephemeram producendam qua huiusmodi occurrunt pauculis verbis eas explicanda. Omnes itaque eas enumeratas in eo conveniunt.

XXIII.

Quomodo [illegible] spiritus calefaciant

Conveniunt itaque omnes cause producentes febr. ephemeram eamtam unitatem et ordinem. Nunc singule ut sciatur quo-modo singule conveniant ad febrem ephemeram faciendam.
Inprimis in eo omnes conveniunt quod febrem hanc faciant augendo extraneum calorem in ipsis spiritibus. Verum si inter se conferantur diversis modis calorem hunc augebunt. Namque sol, ignis & balneum calidum calorem au-gent sua actuali caliditate, que quando primo in calefaciunt partes extimas corporis deinde successive intimas quousque calidiores red-dantur, donec talis calor spiritibus cordis communicetur.
Cibi vero & potus febr. hanc faciunt, quia potestate potius sunt calida ideo a calore corporis actuata possunt exagerare spiritus & illos accendere, copiosa vero evacuatio & nimius corporis labor motu suo impetuoso totum corpus possunt agitare, ut per hanc violentam continuam omnium commotionem & agitationem spiritus a-gitando eosdem accendunt, ut possint febrem efficere.
Per gaudium enim fit spirituum commotio a centro ad circumferentiam cum impetu, sicuti per iram oritur sanguinis accensio et ebullitio circa precordia. Dolor vero attrahen-do spiritus in locum dolentem illos inflammat, timor a. mestitia spiritus nimis concentranda ignitos reddit. Astrictio vero & cutis densitas prohibendo caloris eventationem ipsum augent. Vigiliae immoderatae spiritus detinendo in assiduo motu illos et dissipant et acuunt, ac inflamant. Contra vero somnus immoderatus eosdem spiritus nimis concentrando humido calidiores reddit. Fames vero et sitis eosdem spiritus inflamant, quoniam ob defectum humidi et proprij alti spiritus se ipsos voluti igniunt, ut nimis alterati nam ignea a[illegible] grant. Bubo vero cum sit tumor inflammatorius, consequenter calidus et suo calore cordis spiritus [illegible] igniunt et ephemeram febrem procurare. Ex his itaque patet quomodo singulae hae causae propositae concurrerant ad febrem ephemeram producendam. Ephemerae febris differentiae capiuntur a duobus, a substantia scilicet in qua inflammatio subiicitur, 2o a causis efficientibus talem inflammationem.

Unde quantum sit ex parte differentiarum quae a substantia desumuntur, cum haec sit spiritus. Spiritus autem sit vel influens vel complantatus. huic duae differentiae febris ephemerae oriuntur, scilicet

Cum optimus [illegible] medicus sit non solum hoc res naturae erit consequentias proprietates invenire et consequenter signa de signis erit agendum. De signis autem agentes scilicet nos apponemus primus quae ephemeram simpliciter sciant. Deinde vero quae singulas differentias patefaciunt. Discurremusque de more circa tres illos signorum fontes quae capiuntur a laesa actione, ab excrementis mutatis et qualitate mutata. Imprimis quod ad signa ex laesa actione desumpta occurrit pulsus qui a naturali statu recedit in magnitudine, in frequentia, nunquam vero in inaequalitate. Pulsus in hac febre, ideo magnus est quia caloris augmentandi necessitas adest et proprie maiori et minori [illegible] augmentandi hunc auctum calorem pulsus quamquam non solum magnus quam etiam frequens, quod signum non est proprium et inseparabile febris ephemerae, cum etiam quae putridis contingit. Signum vero proprium et inseparabile huius febris est, ut pulsus non sit inaequalis, quandoquidem inaequalitas pulsus procedit non a solo calore aucto, sed coniuncto cum materia putrescente, [illegible] in cuius maturatione fit, ut pulsus non servet aequalitatem, quia si maior fuerit utilitas caloris augmentandi quam vero putrida materia evanandi fuerit diastole erit frigidior systole, unde oritur inequalitas, si vero contra maior fuerit necessitas humoris putridi evanandi quam vitalis caloris ventilandi frigidior erit systole ipsa diastole. Cum igitur in ephemera non adsit materia que sit febris humoralis, ideo hec inequaliter pulsus non observabitur. Preterea cognoscimus febrem ephemeram quia cessante hac febre in ipso eius intervallo pulsus dantur arguit omnino naturalem statum, ut nullum vestigium febris: putride contrarium supponit ad differentiam putridarum in quarum intervallo pulsus adhuc in febricitantibus vestigium retinent. Secundum genus signorum sumitur ab excremento mutato & precipue a lotio, in hac enim febre lotium non alteratur, nec recedit a naturali statu, neque in substantia neque in colore, neque in contentis. Cum enim hec febris in spiritibus tantum fundetur & non in materia ideo frustra dubitaretur in hac febre an lotium sit crudum vel concoctum, quia coctio & cruditas ad materiam diriguntur a qua hec febris non dependet, & cum non aliquam materiam humorosam & morbificam lotium in colore alteretur & in hac febre materia locum non habet ideo nec de colore quicquam dicendum. Si quis autem versus sit in lotio in hac febre, est quod lucidum & splendens apparere videatur, quia enim hec febris in aereis spiritibus consistat horum spirituum munus est lotium splendens & lucidum reddere quem ut spiritus ex natura sua splendentes & lucidi sunt. Si vero modum inuasionis febris huius consideramus, cognoscimus febrem hanc esse ephemeram potius quam alterius generis, quia non invadit cum rigore, horrore, frigore & inequalitate, ratio est quia rigores dependent a materia putrescente que in ephemera locum non habet. Si augmentum huius febris spectamus breve satis erit quemadmodum et ipse status, immo universa hec febris omnino erit brevis: cum diem non pertransierat. Postremum genus signorum capitur a qualitate mutata & potissimum ab odore sensu tactus acquisito calore ipsorum, quod etsi in toto corpore aucta sentiatur, hec tamen caliditas suavis lenitatis vaporosa est omnium carens mordacitate, ad differentiam caloris putridinalis qui acris & mordax extat, quum hec fundatur in obijceret non esse hoc inseparabile, quia non convenit ephemerae ex bubone & astrictione cutis, utraque enim haec febris ab in-terna causa producitur. Dicendum quod si sermo fuerit de ephemera exquisita, semper ab externa causa ortum ducit, si vero de non tali & spuria, quales sunt adductae duae, ita non inconveniens est ut a causa interna fiat. Reliquum esset differentium ephemerae signa proponere, sed quia omnes a causa externa pro-deunt, qualitudo non melius haberi potest quam ex pertinentibus & astantibus, ideo frustra est tempus ~~absumere~~

De febribus putridis

Acturus de putridis febribus in primis ordinem et ordinis rationem ostendam, mox ad res explicandas descendam.
Circa ordinem igitur si Galenum sequi vellemus post tractatum febrium ephemerarum agendum nobis de febribus hecticis. Sed nos autem potius incipiemus de putridis quae in primis occurrit.
Quos ut conciliemus animadvertendum quod 3 hae fe-bres genera, ephemera putrida et hectica considerari possunt in pro-cessu generationis et hoc modo non habent ordinem necessarium, in eo enim ut dum febris mutatur nulla est unitas ut prius generatur ephemera, deinde putrida succedat et postremo hectica emanat, sed quaelibet febris generis videtur primo in-nata ... natare pt, et propterea hac re mirum non sit, si Avic: p[rim]o posuerit tractationem putridarum, tractatum Hecticarum & Gal: oppositum ordinem servaverit, de Hecticis primo agendo deinde de putridis. Sed contra ut apparet ut non temere utrosque suum ordinem servasse videantur animadvertendum est, quod 3o hae febr. curam, potest adhuc duobus considerari, prout curandi facilitatem vel difficultatem, ut prius faciliore curandi venit, cum Avic: quod sit agendum de Ephemeris, quae curatu sunt omnium simplicissimae & facilimae, 2o vero de putridis quae paululum difficili-ores extant, postremo de Hecticis quae omnium difficillimae.

Gal: vero ob aliam rem ordinem immutavit, Consideravit enim 3 hae febr. genera prout maiore & minore simplicitate ad invicem. Unde cum Ephemerae & Hecticae febres omnium simplicissimae sint carentes omni ma[teria] propterea ab illis ut simplex curandi ~~[illegible]~~ indicatio oriatur, immo Gal: de Hecticis & Ephemeris primo tractavit, putridas vero cum sint febr. magis composi-tae et [illegible] et compositas indicationes [illegible] variabili, deinde de iis posteriore loco tractavit. Nos igitur de putridis Avic: imitantes tractabimus, In quarum tractatione hunc ordinem servabo, Ut in primis putridae feb. naturam exponam. 2o de earum [illegible] trac-tabo. 3. differentias omnes putridarum febr. enarrabo. 4. coniunctas proprietates ac de signis putridarum agam.
5. Habita cognitione putridarum febr. & per signa & per eas ad curam nos accingam & in primis de indicationibus de prognostico agendam, deinde auxiliorum [illegible] toriis diligenter tractabo. Quod igitur ad primum spectat ad febris putridae naturam, cum hoc brevis & succincta notitia praesupponat a nominis notione exordiar. Febris ergo putrida dicitur nomine desumpto ab ipsius causa. Sicut ex Gal.o ut colligitur 1. Glauc. 4. Febris enim quae ex humorum putredine accenditur ab hoc ipso putri-das vocarunt. Si autem huius putridae febris naturam Ordo tractandorum.

De essentia put. feb.

De sig. nominis

cepimus, paucis illis verbis explicari potest, ut febris putrida nihil aliud sit quam calor extraneus humorum cordis circa quam definitionem tria explicanda occurrunt: 1. ad formalem causam pertinet. 2. ad materialem. 3. ad causam efficientem. Ex quarum trium causarum integra notitia universae essentiae feb. putridae patefit. Forma igitur febris putridae in eo consistit, ut sit calor extraneus, verum haec forma generica satis et ampla est, quae competit omnibus febris generibus, oportet ut aliquo distinguatur ab ephemera in primis et hectica, necessarium fuit addere subiectum proprium huius febris.
Hoc autem subiectum [illegible] accipitur loco differentiae in definitione siquidem in definitione quarumcunque accidentium materia solet accipi loco formae. Subiectum autem febris in genere est ipsum cor, eo quod cor est unum et similaris, subiectum vero proprium huius et illius generis febris non est illud ipsum cor, sed limitate et specifice sumptum. Cor autem limitatur et specificatur ab iis quae cordis substantiam complent et efficiunt, quae autem cordis substantiam complent 3a sunt, scilicet spiritus, humores et solida.
Unde calor extraneus est forma generica et communis omnibus febrium generibus cuius subiectum genericum est cor simpliciter absolute et generice sumptum. Iste vero calor extraneus si specifice magis consideretur, tunc limitabitur a constituentibus cordis substantiam. Ut hic calor si terminatur ad spiritus cordis limitabitur ad constituendum unum feb. genus nempe ephemeram. Si terminabitur ad humores cordis constituet alterum feb. genus nempe putridum, si terminabitur ad solida cordis constituet 3m genus feb. hecticam scilicet. Itaque recte diximus in definitione non calorem extraneum, non simpliciter sed humorum cordis, ad differentiam ephemerae quae est calor extraneus spirituum cordis, et hecticae quae est calor extraneus solidorum cordis. Ceterum ne error contingat circa hanc particulam, advertendum quod dum dicimus febrem esse calorem extraneum humorum cordis, non propterea intelligimus quod humores cordis tantum hoc extraneo calore afficiantur, sed quod et coniuncte humores totius corporis. Febris enim non solum est passio cordis sed totius. Ergo erit calor extraneus non solum humorum cor.

cordis sed totius. Si hec febr. est calor extraneus humorum cordis, et totius, cur ergo quando in diffinitione diximus humorum cor-dis et non potius humorum totius. Cum non dicit totum nihil excludit. Diximus non calorem extraneum humorum cordis ut tangeremus solum febr. principalius, sine quo affecto febr. non oritur. Ideo cum ad febris generationem necessario debeat cor affici, ideo magis voluimus am-plecti cor ut principale solum quam ipsum totum. Conside-

Humores cordis dupliciter possunt corripi randum quod dum humores cordis in hac putrida febre calore hoc extraneo corripiuntur, corripi possunt dupliciter, vel corripiuntur calore extraneo citra suam putredinem, vel ita corripiuntur extraneo calore ut etiam putrescant. Si cordis humores in hac feb: putrida calore hoc corripiantur citra putredinem, hoc fit quotiescumque dicti humores efferuescunt et ebulliunt sed nondum putrescunt quod contingit in febre synocha sine putredine. Si vero iidem humores propter extraneum calorem putredinem ut corripiant, bifariam hoc contingere potest, vel quia secundum propriam suam substantiam putrescunt et tunc oritur febris non solum putrida simpliciter sed putrida pestilens

Feb. pest. quid

Ita ut feb. pestilens sit calor extraneus humorum cordis secundum propriam substantiam putrescentium, hinc fit ut virtus languescat et deficiat, quia dum putrescit substantia humorum cordis spiritus vitales deficiunt et non amplius generan-tur. Vel 2o non humores cordis secundum propriam substantiam putrescunt sed ab extrinseca solum putredine affi-ciuntur, ut a vaporibus putridis et fuliginosis elevatis ab humorib. putrescentibus in aliis partibus a corde longinquis. Nam cum a tali humore putrescente extra cor, in aliis partibus a corde longinquis, vapores qui elevantur sursum et sanguini permixti partem post partem cor petunt, et cor petentes permiscentur cum eorum hu-moribus et tunc fit febris putrida simpliciter non pestilens, quia tunc humores cordis secundum internam et propriam substantiam non putrescunt sed ab extrinseco putrescentes vapores suscipiunt. Hec ergo febris putrida simpliciter distinguistinguitur ab ephemera ex bubone, quam ex Gal. 1. de diff. feb.

cap. 5. in ephemera ex bubone incalescunt partes vicinae ipsi buboni & istae partes calorem externum suum communicant vicinis partibus interioribus donec successive ad cor usque externus calor perveniat: At putrida fuligo quae a bubone elevatur nequaquam cordi mittatur in hac ephemera, sed sola qualitas id est calor externus. At in feb. putrida quae ortum habet ab aliquibus partibus ipsi cordi non solum mittatur qualitas & calor externus, verum et ipsa fuligo rei, quare haec febris simpliciter putrida vocatur. Verum hic aliquis obiciat quod cor in omni febri et cor & corpus universum externo calore accendatur, & consequenter in omni febre cor debet accendi secundum spiritus, secundum humores & solida. Ex his enim tota cordis essentia est conflata. Quod si ita se habeat, inconveniens videtur quod in febre putrida cum secundum eam cor non solum humores cordis accendantur externo hoc calore accendi, sed simul etiam & spiritus & solida, aliter secundum febris non esset cor

Obiectio

nec corpus universum, quia cordis substantia & corporis universi essentia ex istis tribus constat. Cum si corpus universum et cor sint secundum febris fieri non possit, videtur ut soli humores corripiantur illaesis spiritibus & solidis, cui difficultati dicendum. Verum quidem est quod in quacunque feb. cor & corpus universum accenduntur & consequenter accenduntur spiritus humores & solida. Non tamen propterea febrium 3a genera erunt confusa, sicut patebat et elucescat notandum est, quod tamen in febre tria haec secundum accenduntur spiritus inquam humores & solida, eorum accensio non potest vel in fieri vel in facto esse, eorum inquam accensio esse potest vel independens vel dependens. Si fuerit accensio eorum in fieri et depen-dens, tunc febris adhuc non accepit nomen respectu spirituum, nec horum nec solidorum. Ratio est quia febris cum sit morbus debet esse in facto esse non in fieri. Si vero haec fuerint posita in calefacto esse tunc febris & tunc potest hoc multipliciter contingere, sicut secundum quod positum in calefacto esse vel sunt spiritus vel humores vel solida.

Si spiritus tamen positi sunt in calefacto esse, humores vero & solida

O. feb. cum sit morbus debet esse in facto esse solida in calefieri, tunc oritur febr. ephēa quae ē accensio cordis confecta secundum spiritus & secundum spiritus primo accensos positos in calefacto esse, humores vero & solida veniunt in calefieri, quia eorum caliditas ē dependens, quia in ali sequitur in ephēa humores & solida per spiritus positos in cale facto esse, ut eorum causa tum incalescant, et ipsa remo to calore externo spiritum in ephēa statim desistit et calor in humoribus & solidis, quia horum primum caliditas non prin cipalis non ē posita in calefacto esse, sed dependet a ca lefactione spirituum. Eadem sit ratio si res ponatur in ca lefacto esse secundum humores, ita ut humores primo accendantur & eorum gratia reliqua duo accendantur, nempe spiritus et solida, tunc enim oritur febr. putrida tantum non hectica vel ephēa, quia solum humores sunt positi in ca lefacto esse, reliqua duo in calefieri, quia eorum calor dependet a calefacto esse humorum, ideo cessante ca lore humorum cessat etiam calor spirituum & solidorum Putrefactio alia naturalis dicitur, alia violenta sponte nostra fit et vocatur dici potest, altera ab externis causis et violenta potest merito vocari. Naturalis putrefactio est quae uno quodam ordine fit et nos eam non cognoscimus. Fit autem mea calore interno qui assiduo absumit humidum radicale quod [illegible] dico rigorem esse sensationem frigidis quia frigus quod in altera citra sensationem. Rigor ea est frigus quod sentitur ad differentiam illius frigidis quod in aliis partibus corporis paralyticis non sentitur ut rigor non omnis sentitur frigus sed sensatio frigidis. Eodem modo frigus quod sentitur et sentitur cum dolore et citra dolorem.

Rigor vero est frigus quod cum dolore sit ad differentiam alterius frigoris quod non sentitur. In talibus frigus sit non remissa sensatio frigidis dolorosa duplex est: altera sit cum laesione corporis inde distinguit rigor a tremore quod ipse sit factus cum oculis et quod ab aliis distingue nunc de malevoli ag.

Rigoris formam cum explicauimus superest ut ipsius materiam et efficientem causam enarremus. Quantum ad materiam intelligo subiectum ipsius rigoris quod rigor cum passio corporea sit [illegible] est illius subiectum est ipsum corpus, et corpus quod [illegible] talis et [illegible]. Frigoris [illegible] subiectum sit corpus totum per totum intelligitur [illegible] sensus [illegible] ad distantem obiectum [illegible] cum sensu careat rigoris subiectum esse non potest. Quo vero ad causam efficientem frigoris cum sit passio quaedam sit cum sit effectus quaedam [illegible] efficitur ab aliquo agente, tale autem agens quod ad rigorem facit duplex est alterum est agens movens, alterum agens [illegible] movens malum. Agens movens est [illegible] ipsa [illegible], agens vero malum est [illegible] quae [illegible] expulsio et expellitur, movens enim id movet materiam [illegible] [illegible] et expulsat ipsum [illegible] et [illegible] germanda ipsum et acrimonia sua [illegible] vendo, haec autem [illegible] et quae calidior [illegible] est [illegible] et quae est frigidior [illegible] et calidis [illegible] retinens [illegible] expulsare, quod [illegible] causa [illegible] sit in hoc [illegible] quod [illegible] [illegible]. in [illegible] de [illegible]. et [illegible]. Ut toti corpori communicatus calor cordis igneus efficiat pulsum magnum, quia hoc tempore magna habentur vascula cordis sta[tim] [illegible] eventilanda. Unde fit in magnitudine una sufflare neces-sarium calore eventilando pulsus non solo erit magnus sed et freq[uens] et igneus remittitur et magnitudo pulsus una cum frequentia et velocitate remittitur et non paulatim [illegible], et [illegible] acre incipit pulsus, qui in hoc tempore una non erat magnum [illegible] Tale signum ab inaequalitate pulsus sumptum q[uod] non parvus non magnus non frequens non velox sed [illegible] non tardus erit signum ipsius putridarum febrium, quia nec ephemeris nec ethicis competit, sed in ethica pulsus semper est uniformis [illegible] et in ipsa ephemera, et non est, quia su[b] [illegible] febris ephemerae et ethicarum [illegible] om[ni] genea non magis accenditur in uno tempore quam in alio [illegible] [illegible] Sed ob [illegible] omogeneitatem aequalem accensionem suscipiunt, unde fit ut pulsus et in ethica et ephemera aequalitatem servet. Secundum signum desumitur ex anhelitu, de quo [illegible] diebus anhelitus in febribus putridis semper correspondere ipsi pulsui. Unde si pulsus est magnus et anhelitus talis si frequens et cetera. Tertium signum febrium putridarum sumitur ex [illegible] quadam sensatione totius corporis nempe ex dolore ita ut ad febrem putridam semper dolor aliquis consequatur, ad ethicam et ephemeram vero [illegible] [illegible] doloris in putridis febribus, non autem in ethicis et ephemeris dicendum. Causa doloris in febre putrida [illegible] non ab intemperie tantum calida et sicca absumente ipsum h[umidum] [illegible] colliquationis, quia talis intemperies [illegible] et in ephe: et ethicis, sed dolor procedit ab intemperie

In Ephemera et Ethica febre pulsus sunt aequales semper.

Secundum signum desumitur ab anhelitu.

Tertium signum desumitur ex [illegible] sensatione.

Causa [illegible] sensationis in febre putrida.

inaequalitatis caloris, quae in putridis febribus observatur. In hectica vero et ephemera, quia calor aequalis est, quia calor est uniformis, quia aequaliter universum corpus afficit, hinc fit ut aegri in hectica nec dolorem sentiant, nec de febre conquerantur, at vero in putrida quia adest caloris inaequalitas, ut antea diximus, ideo in ea afflictat patientes corpus totum cum inaequalitate caloris molestia dolor lassitudo [illegible] in toto corpore, et adest signum probabile certo indicans febrem esse putridam non autem hecticam ut ephemeram. Sic igitur signa desumpta a tactu caloris, secundum genus signorum est quod consistit in excremento mutato, ideo lotium erit considerandum in febre ista putrida, de quo loquitur Galenus [illegible] signa desumpta ab excremento mutato.

de differentiis febrium [illegible] dicebat, lotium in febribus putridarum initio crudum esse, nec invenitur quia hoc tempore non sentimus febrilem calorem ita excandescit, ut partem aliquam ipsius ad licorem usque decoquere, sed hoc contingit in consistentia, nempe in statu ipsius febris, quo tempore cum ab urina crassa separatur fuligo et cinerulenta materia, haec cum lotio et serositate permixta clare conspicitur non in fundo ipsius urinalis, sed in media parte, non [illegible] supra, sed in nullo febris initio adest haec cinis non separata lotio sive aliqua hypostasi observatur et quando lotio tale observabitur tamen in hac febris erit in initio, non in statu aut in declinatione. Quare [illegible] qui dixerunt numquam in febribus humanis [illegible] initio observari hypostasin [illegible] habet non esse hypostasim verbosam, non esse hypostasim [illegible] excandescentis et febrilis sed potius esse hypostasim ipsius lotii [illegible] et tempore [illegible] in eodem lotio observatur. Postremo a qualitate [illegible] signum desumptum caloris a frigore [illegible] quod ad frigus [illegible] in febribus observamus horrores, rigores, inaequalitates et frigus lotium crudum.

Ordo doctrinae requirit ut post [illegible] eandem febrium ad singulas species descendam, et quoniam licet multas species febrium putridarum nulla celebrius [illegible] magis accedat ad febris essentiam quam febris biliosa quae et unde materia putrescentis calidioris et tenuioris et unde intemperies consequitur, idem quasi ampliori indicat, ut iure ab hac exordium sumen dum sit, postea agam de febribus sanguineis, 3.° de pituitosis postremo de melancholicis. Ordo autem quem secuturus sum in qualibet considerando speciem talis erit ut primo subiectum febris essentiam explicem, secundo [illegible] causas [illegible] 3.° differentias talis febris enumerabo, 4.° de signis tractabo postremo ad curam ad amplia et magis ampliorem descendam. [illegible] quoad febrem biliosam constat nomen desumere a materia putrescente nempe a bile, quae non ut sola et seorsim ab alteris materiis / [illegible] putrescit, et tunc fit ad solum febris biliosa sed biliosa [illegible], vel putrescit simul cum alteri materia et tunc fit biliosa notha [illegible] quamque fuerit haec bilis putrescens ut erit alterius, ut [illegible] et si [illegible] est [illegible] et flava et vitellina et porracea et [illegible] et aerugo [illegible] agendum est de febre biliosa [illegible] [illegible] bile [illegible] [illegible]. Quibus signis cognoscitur biliosa febris quae ut est distincta a reliquis febribus in [illegible] abunde docuimus, nunc superest ut hujus ex febris differentias ab invicem distinguere sciamus et in primis distinguere [illegible] an haec febris fiat a bile alkali et acida, cognoscimus autem febrem ab alkali bile descendere in primis ex pulsu imbecilli quia cum alkali biliosa sua putrescant, non est aptam ad [illegible] conservandum ideo unde imbecillis evadet, hinc est quod [illegible] febre biliosa alkali cognoscere et in primis debiliter decumbere [illegible] defectum [illegible] biliosa, non [illegible] quod putrescit bilis acida, [illegible] cognos cere hanc febrem quia patiens tali febre [illegible] calidissime eminens ut illius facies volatili [illegible] reddere [illegible] putridum quia putrescente succo bilioso alkali deficit [illegible] in illis partibus [illegible] succo reparando, de quo signo [illegible] remisit [illegible] [illegible] quod hanc febrem ex alkali bile fieri, [illegible] cum difficile illam sustinet, quod vero [illegible] febrem ex bile acida facile tolerant quia talis bilis non [illegible] ad [illegible] con servandum [illegible] bilis alkalis, [illegible] signa [illegible] [illegible] cognoscens hanc febrem, quia in hac calidi [illegible] ad tactum erit longe minus mordax [illegible] bilis acida [illegible] bilis alkalis [illegible] benigna et [illegible], bilis vero acida [illegible] mordax [illegible] [illegible] ad [illegible], ideo [illegible]

Judice orietur color mordacior quam putredine vel bilis alcalis calfuit benignior et minus rodens. Si tamen diffusam [...] quod sola abscedere mutato lotium in febre hac quam bilis alcali erit et in colore flavius et in substantia est crassum et grandius et turbidum non ita est quod putrefactione bilis acidi sed dissimilis est, quod putrefactione simplicis bilis alcalicae, fermentum est imbecillior ob hanc sc: alcali occisum, unde non fit quoque cogere alterare, et separare heterogenea ab omogeneis sed ob imbecillitatem in coquendo et separando deficientem omnia acida et heterogenea et simplicia manent cum omogeneis ex alcali. quocirca hic tibi mirum non est, si lotium crassum et turbidum observetur quod indicat diminutam separationem acidi ab alcali, ut in hac febre quemadmodum et in aliis quae dependent a Lotium crassum et turbidum quando sit signum bonum et quando malum.

scientis alcali. Lotium hoc turbidum et crassum est signum lethale, nisi illud fieret per expurgationem malorum acidorum mixtorum cum ipso lotio, tunc enim tale lotium erit solidum signum bonum, sed discriminis an turbidum fiat quia acida expurgantur an turbidum fiat quia acida non separentur ab alcali, ob imbecilli-tatem virtutis, discrimen in hoc quod si lotium turbidum mingitur et turbidum et maneat erit lotium pessimum quia ob imbecillitatem virtutis non poterit separare acida ab alcali. Si vero postquam satis turbidum redditum est clarescat et hypostasis in fundo redditur erit bonum signum quia separantur acida et simul cum lotio expurgantur. Si vero febris biliosa dependeat a bile acida pulsus in primis erit minor frequentior velocior, et fortior et validior quam ubi peccat bilis alcali et eadem cum caeteris.
Quare in hac febre sitis, dolor capitis et vigiliae magis infestabunt quam in bile alcali et similiter mutabitur contendere in hac febre calor erit mordacior et acrior quam in alia febre.

Contenta denique ipsa evidentius haec se habent, bilem contentam in substantia in colore sapore et mordacitate ut Heraclides [illegible] aliud sunt semes, in colore [illegible] mordaces, et si sit vomitus cum magna amaritudine non levem facient in ore, distinguentur per bilis contentae quia si haec febris fiat a bile vitellina, contenta in colore et substantia similia erunt vitellis ~~[illegible]~~ ovorum, si fuerint bilis porracea seu viridis contenta viridia erunt sicuti saepe in vomitibus observamus. Si bilis fuerit aeruginosa et coerulea erit [illegible] et in colore aeruginei erit similis. Calor et bilis non erit magis flavus [illegible] quam vana ipse bilis, unde in bile vitellina calor erit minus flavus, flavior erit in reliquis dictis bilis quia sunt calidiores et magis adustae, idem dicendum de caloris mordacitate quia mordax erit calor in omnibus bile contenta putrescente sed minus mordax in vitellina, mordacior in viridi adusta magis in aeruginosa [illegible] magis in coerulea quia [illegible] adustissima. Tandem occurrunt signa quae distinguunt locum putredinis contentae bilis, [illegible] bilis [illegible] et in venis et extra venas si in venis peccant [illegible] ut [illegible] febris erit continua, [illegible] non in venis putrescat [illegible] sed quia non in venis [illegible] est humor est magis homogenea, [illegible] erit cordi propior quo magis putruerit in venis propinquis cordi quia ~~in ipsis venis~~ erit magis continua et uniformis quia in ipsis venis non relinquet maiorem [illegible] et omo-genietatem, [illegible] putrescit bilis in venis magis [illegible] [illegible] quia febris non solum est continua sed magis ardens [illegible] putredinis est magis cordi propinquus [illegible] putruerit in venis magis [illegible] longinquis calor seu febris erit minus ardens quia calor non ita [illegible] putridus sed [illegible] intervalla adeo q febris fiebat ex putredine bilis in venis remotis à corde similiz illam sufficient et tollerat, differentia vero quod bilis in ma-gnis venis putrescit et cordi propinquis: si simulatio [illegible] utrobique aderat calor in modo auctus, sed longe maior in febre con-tinua longe [maior] ubi putrescit in magnis venis quam ubi putruerit in parvis venis. Quomodo tamen quia ubi febris biliosa ardens fuerit h. i. dependens ex putredine bilis in venis magnis tamen erit flavus et rubicundus quam ubi in parvis venis longinquis putruerit. Si vero tota ex parte venis putruerit si [illegible] fuerit faciet febrem biliosam [illegible] quia [illegible] vacuabit enim [illegible] et [illegible] simplex [illegible]. Si vero [illegible] sa ex parte venis putrescens fuerit longinqua cognoscam ex [illegible] quia invadet [illegible] cum rigore [illegible]

De Pharmacia

Cum genus med[endi] medicum consistat in recto adstando pharmacorum [illegible] sive lenientium sive [illegible] adhibere, quando sit lenientia, praeparantia, purgantia et roborantia, quae omnia cum in curandis febrib[us] usum habent usus ideo de istis dilig[enter] agam. Sed in primis circa materias cognoscenda est, quae haud facile cuiq[ue] sit, nam pharmacia cum indicata a re quae materia, sive [illegible] sit quae materia, sive promineat, et sic haec distinguitur pharmacia ab alia quae indicatur a [illegible] materia, usque a viribus conservandis, et pharmacia multiplex sit [illegible] est eius multiplicitatem distingui ex distinctione rei quae materia a qua indicatur, quae ipsa in febre biliosa e conclus[ione] putridis febrib[us] est quae materia duplex tamen est, alterum se lenes ex parte [illegible] reliquum [illegible] parte cohaerentis, si ex parte [illegible] se habent nil aliud est quam ipsum [illegible], tale aut[em] [illegible] in febre putrida ut [illegible] coctionis [illegible] exhibens [illegible] pharmacia leniens [illegible] quae expurgare [illegible] per coctionis q[uo]d vid[etur] in [illegible] et intestinis [illegible], et [illegible] in febrib[us] putridis est [illegible] coctionis, quando sit [illegible] ipsi, quae haec febrem [illegible] cum fuerint [illegible] et copia, [illegible] si [illegible] fuerint, si [illegible], si [illegible], indicabunt pharmaciam [illegible] et [illegible] quem [illegible] pharmacia [illegible]. majus et minus distinguuntur, quaedam sunt valentia, quaedam debilia et lenia quaedam vero mediocria quorum differentia vomitoriorum non solum oritur ab eo quod materia in ventriculo similiter contenta, verum et a vehementia et remissione eiusdem materiae in agendo et resistendo vomitoriis, unde si materia in ventriculo subsistens sit valde tenax, et adhaerens tunicis intestinorum habebit magnam resistentiam ut valentioribus vomitoriis egeat.
Si vero mobilis fuerit, quoniam nullam habeat resistentiam sed leni negotio educatur sufficiet vomitoria lenia, si eadem materia medio-critatem servaverit inter utraque vomitoria mediocria compe-tebit, cum hic solum sit de vomitoriis lenientibus. Quod de vomitiis quae in febris initio exhiberi debent, abstinere debemus a valentibus quia valentia vomitoria non solum ventriculum evacuant, sed etiam vi a remotioribus et partibus materiam trahunt atque quia in initio febris materia est cruda non est per initia illam evacuare valentibus vomi-toriis unde in febre biliosa lenia vomitoria sufficiunt si contingat bilem fluctuare in ipso ventriculo, et ratio est quia bilis est humor

TRACTATUS DE SEMINE ET SANGUINE MENSTRUO EX^mi Medici Bottonis.

Consentiunt omnes tum philosophi tum medici duo subiecta esse quidem necessaria semen videlicet et sanguinem menstruum, utrumque menstruum sanguinem in foeminis, semen vero in maribus.
Unde ad generandum necessario concurrit mas et foemina ut neuter per se solus ad procreandam prolem sufficiat sed uterque sit necessarius.
Quis autem sit utriusque horum usus et munus, quae sit horum natura, quae sit [illegible] a nobis erit videndum [illegible] et quis usus utriusque horum in generatione habentur declarabo. [illegible] in ea re magna difficultas fuerit con-troversia inter philosophos et medicos, cuius rei perfecta cognitio cum futuro medico utilis et necessaria sit [illegible] [illegible] quam [illegible] a pluribus [illegible] rei [illegible] habentur. Verum et [illegible] cognoscenda et [illegible] difficultas dilucidate. Sed de utriusque horum usu in generatione [illegible] in qua re [illegible] philosophi et medici [illegible]: duo haec semina ad generandum concurrunt ut agentia, vel ambo ut patientia, vel alterum ut agens reliquum ut patiens, vel utrumque quidem et ut agens et ut patiens simul. [illegible] explicare an in generatione

Ad generationem necessario concurrit mas et foemina.

De usu inter philosophos et medicos magna et plurima contentio.

est excrementum utile 3ae coctionis. Reliquum est cognoscere quid sit eius materia eius efficiens et finis eius. Quantum ad materiam ea duplex est, scilicet materia ex qua et materia in qua. De utraque materia est agendum, et primo de materia ex qua fit semen, deinde de materia in qua id est de subiecto. Cum igitur semen sit excrementum utile 3ae coctionis ratione Meteor: elixatio, assatio et maturatio, dicebamus semen generari per maturationem. Eiusdem propositionis species coctionis etsi tres fiant a calore nativo, utraque tamen etsi dirigatur ad conservandum ut ad finem communem, differunt tamen tum ex parte agentis, cum ex parte finis proprii: quandoquidem elixatio non solum fit a calore nativo verum etiam a calore nativo naturae ac propriae fundatae in subiecto humidiori, ipsa elixatio potissimum in fructibus locum habebit; assatio vero fit non solum a calore nativo sed a calore nativo adsistente ac proprie fundato in subiecto sicciori, qualia sunt corpora in masculis et calidae aetatis. Ipsa assatio cum sit coctionis species quae locum potissimum habebit non in fructibus sed in iuvenibus et reliquis aetatibus. Matu-ratio vero fit ab eodem calore nativo adsistente circa certam aetatem determinatam, videlicet in ea aetate in qua semen generari solet, ut ma-turatio locum habeat ab adolescentia usque ad finem senium. Distinguuntur praeterea ex parte finis proprii, siquidem elixatio et assatio fiunt non solum propter conservandum sed propter conservandum proprii individui, maturatio vero quae circa nutrimentum non versatur, sed potius circa semen, ideo locum ha-bebit in dicta aetate dirigiturque ad conservandum speciei. Quod autem elixatio et assatio fiunt a calore elixante et assante propter conservandum individuum G. ubique testatur. Est enim pro [illegible]: [illegible] 2 com: 44. Ubi calorem coctionem definiens dicebat eam versionem in substantiam nutrimenti, quod ipsis fere affirmat [illegible] de facultate lib. naturalium cap. 4, qui in locis loquitur non de coctione in genere sed de illa quae dirigitur ad individuum conservandum. Maturatio vero quae fiat a calore maturante et ad speciei conservandum dirigatur, Aristoteles testatur 4 Meteor: cap. 4. Maturatio inquit est coctio alimenti in his quae circa fructum. Maturatio dicitur inquit Aristoteles quaedam vero coctio perfectio quaedam est, [illegible] maturatio fieri inquit Aristoteles, quod foemina quae in eo quae circa fructum efficere tale alterum quale ipsum fuerit respicit speciem conservandum.

Ut ergo dixi ex Arist. clare colligatur quod ad propagationem fiat mediante semine et semen per maturandum perficit, nisi maturando semen respiciat et speciei conceptum propagandum. Ut tandem ergo dixi sit colligendo quod semen humanum materialiter acceptum nil aliud sit quam [illegible]: quod ex calidis album ducens ergo massa sanguinea quod superest [illegible] nutriendum et in vasis seminalibus per maturandum qualiter propagandae speciei [illegible], addita etiam foeminis conceptum coniunctis cum causis formali, materiali, efficiente et finali seorsum [illegible] ut ipsius [illegible] in genere cognoscimus. Verum ut omnia similiter quae supersunt [illegible] sanguinis quoque menstrui etiam complecti-mur, de usu utriusque [illegible] dictum habeatur. Circa vero [illegible] menstrui sanguinis tamquam circa [illegible] generationis primum hoc erit perpendenda, ut primum quid sit hic sanguinis necessitas in genere [illegible] cenda declaremus. Quod vero quid sit ipsius materia et causa declar-aretur de illius forma, materia, causa efficiente et fine loquar.
Quoniam ad primum menstrui sanguinis necessitas colligitur ergo ipsius fine quam in genere habet, finis enim sanguinis necessitatem [illegible] [illegible] ad finem ordinatur. Adeo ergo intuitu quod fieri debet in formando foetu tamquam ergo fine facile indubitate necessitas men-strui sanguinis quoniam enim foetus formari incipit ergo semine [illegible] in utero, nec formandum suscipere sit nec augendum ipse nec nutriri, nisi [illegible] fuerit idonea materia et nutriendi et augendi et conformandi ipsius foetus. Hanc autem quam ad foetus [illegible] et recipiat ab ipsa matre, mediante menstruo sanguine cum in foetus nutriendum augendi et formandi summa [illegible] [illegible] utilitas sed necessitas [illegible] sanguinis menstrui. Hinc [illegible] mulieres quoniam incipiunt gravidas fieri suppressione sanguinis men-strui [illegible], quod est unum ex praecipuis signis quod mulier sit gravida, nec ob aliam causam hoc contingit nisi quia [illegible] sanguis maternus est necessarius pro foetu nutriendo et conservando statuit.

Unde si occurrat ut in pregnantibus fluat illis menstruus sanguis ab utero necessario sequitur, nec aliud eveniat cum hoc fiat nisi ipsa substantialis debitum alimentum ipsi foeti, ob cuius defectum perit foetus et abortum patiuntur mulieres. Similiter est ut si inde aliquis medicus necessarium sit sanguinem detrahere mulieri pregnanti imminet periculum et de morte geniturae et de abortu, probabiliter si rursum inita geniturae et circa finem et sanguis ipse detrahatur, et potissimum detrahatur a partibus internis magis quam a pedibus. Nam inde laborat humiditas ut alimentum quod deficit ut menstrua provocat et uterus inde fit abortus. Et ideo G. in 1. de sem(ine): quod [illegible] in his menstrui sanguinis necessitas in quo sicut semina terrae demandata quae gaudere producendo fructum sole egent assiduo ali-mento, quod a terra continuo attrahunt et ob nimiam terrae ari-ditatem absumatur tale humidum alimentale seminis ut illo consumpto semina contabescunt maneant propria nutriende apparent quoniam [illegible] in muliere in eius utero semen susceptum tamquam in propria terra si nutriri augeri et conformari debeat eget assiduo alimenti attractione, quod alimentum cum sit maternus ille sanguis si ob ductus eius defecerit necessario est, mulierem abortum facere, hinc demum est et genitura infecunda et terra contabescit non sit apta ad concipiendum. ut mulieres in [illegible] aliam etiam nisi iam in extremis aetatibus. deest alimentum nec ab foetus; ideo puellae ante [illegible] annum non sunt aptae ad generationem. ipsis sit necessitas huius menstrui sanguinis pro nutriendo foetu [illegible] quantitate, quoniam cum indifferens illius natura videatur ita ut neque locari posse videatur sub humore excrementitio nec sub humore alimentali; sed ne diutius in ea re versemur deliniam resolutionem concedendo dico quod talis sanguis si consideretur in mu-liere gravida erit humor alimentalis, quia ex ipso sanguine ex p[arte] alterando foetus nutritur augetur et conservatur quemadmodum videre aperte satis ostendimus, Asseruit si idem sanguis consideretur Et in muliere lactante erit humor alimentalis quoniam post partum sanguis ille menstruus in utero assiduo fluebat pro nutritione ipsius foetus eo desit occasio nutriendi et nova nutriendi occasio subornitur nempe nutriendi infantem nuper natum vita superstite et sincera; id facit ut talis sanguis qui in utero decumbebat tempore gestationis foetus coloris rubri mutetur, sursum ascendat ad utrasque mamillas in quibus novam suscipiens coctionem vertitur in lac, quod lac est convenientissimum alimentum pueri nuper nati quapropter his modis consideratus maternus iste sanguis humor erit alimentalis si vero ex altera parte consideretur iste sanguis in muliere non gravida erit humor simpliciter excrementitius cuius rei illud est evidens argumentum quod natura per certa temporis intervalla foras expellit per uterum tamquam excrementum: superfluum quod post ultimam nutritionem superest, quia sanguis sensim aggregatur in corpore quocumque die post singulas nutritiones, non tamen singulo die expellitur sed solum quando ad eam copiam devenerit unde cum natura nimis onerata non sufficit ad illius expulsionem, quia eo contingit singulo quoque mense unde est ut mulieres non concipientes singulo mense patiantur has suas menstruas purgationes. Cum quo commode superfluum sanguinis mulieres melius sunt quemad: ante illi eandem nimis gravati delevi sunt. Itaut sunt ex essentia corporis sanguinis cuius granulatem faciunt ita ex illis essentia immane et congeneradem esse quidem.

Plurimi sanguinem menstruum humorem esse non nutrilem, sed reanimi dicitur corpore multitudine et praeterea, plurimi quam et talem sanguinem copia et qualitate redundare, nunc superest ut singula quae ulterius dicendi et ingerendi an hic ipse sanguis non solum copia sed mala et qualitate peccet, quorum voluerunt talem sanguinem non solum prava qualitate esse constitutum sed et malignam et veluti venenosam, quod si ita est, non erit imperanda quod possit esse eorum altius foetus, unde aut ipsi ea unde, quoniam in mulieribus in qua talis sanguinis nihil eruditur esse, constat eamdem quaedam suppressione simpliciter nullae et letales et contingit, qualia sunt dolores, febres, dolores, suffocationes matricis sanguine sunt et morbilli et variolae, et eius quod velim quod sanguinis pulchritudo sit solum, Nec: aut non contingeret, nisi talis sanguinis impuritate et mala qualitate nocivitatis non esset, ut foetus ea alia pabulis quodam tempore. a vera ita separatim pars impura, ut eadem et expulsa vel in cutim universa faciat morbillos et variolas et si in certam partem corporis expulsa fuerit nulla alius forte efficiet, quod expulsio partis impurioris non alia ut saepe fieri solet in ipsis venis, ut contingit in vino dissolvit, unde eius ebullitio a variis speciebus, fol. vini est fere un desinato, ubi partis impurae separatio ab vitro vini calore facta expellitur a centro ad circumferentiam vasis ut spumosa et levior ex parte ad superficiem expellitur, crassiora vero et ad latera et ad fundum vasis demittit, a quo contingit in corpore puerorum quod tota corporis sanguinea massa coinquinata est ad impuritatem totius sanguinis matrem. Ut hoc massa sanguinis in puero statuto tempore veluti ebulliens instar ipsius Vini pr. [illegible] expellit, sit vero generatio ebul. de transmissio fit per vias vasiolis impuri a Centro ad Circumferentiam, unde morbilli vel ipsum corpus occupant, sit sed observatione sentia eo et magis, quia experientia est observatum, quod mulieres dum patiuntur fluxum menstruum si tempus fiant vino ipsum turbant et inficiunt corruptum reddunt, quod non contingeret nisi a tali fluxu menstruali vapores ascenderent vitiata qualitate affecti; quia vino juncti possunt ipsum corrumpere. Iuvenes et hoc possunt testari quod si coeant cum muliere quae actu patitur hunc fluxum, penis et luat, quia expulsum pudendi solet excoriari ab hac ratione quod per uterum fluit, quod evenire non contingeret si iste sanguis vitiata qualitate non esset affectus.

Verum ex altera parte non desunt rudes plantes hunc ipsum sanguinem non solum corpus peccare non autem vitiata qualitate praeditum esse hinc in primis credit effectus nutritionis foetus ex tali sanguine in mulieribus utero gerentibus, quod si ita est concludendum quod hic sanguis non solum sit laudabilis, verum et aliis nostris maternis partibus lauda-bilior, nec obstat si quis dicet quod talis sanguis duplici parte constat altera bona et laudabili ex qua nutritio fetus, altera prava nec cuiusque mala qualitate affecta et ex hac nutritio non fit. Hoc si est separare quod dicas mulieres quotidie fiunt [illegible], quod evidenti hunc rudes [illegible] . [illegible] ex [illegible] eorum [illegible] [illegible] nutritione puriorem et sinceriorem partem sanguinis naturam ad se attrahit, quae si duplici hac parte esset hic sanguis solum meliori attracta pravum relinqueret, quod si esset, separato meliori quod hic sanguis impurior quo solus non aliter [illegible] detentus magis molestiam afferre debeat ipsis gerentibus. Dico magnum quidem sunt seorsum subsistens a bono quam attractrice ab ipsa [illegible] magis efficeris evaderet. Ex separare maiorem cogendi nocendi vim acquireret quam antea quod erat simplex ambobus [illegible] benignitate et lenitate contemperabatur, et illius ferocitas commoderabatur, tanto hic adest, ut Gynades mulieres [illegible] [illegible] mala illis exhibeat, nihil laedat, ut potius se pinguefaciat et melius appeteret et melius nutriret et impinguaret quam antea et hoc gestationis tempore nullo incommodo [illegible] patiuntur. quod evidens indicio est talem sanguinem duplici ex parte esse [illegible] bona scilicet et mala; accedit quod si sanguis duplici hac parte esset simplex separata quod easdem mulieres Gynades non solum deberent coagulare [illegible] exhibito hunc sanguinem, sed longe gravius deberent coagulare aliis, et gravissime in ultimis mensibus suae gestationis quam in primis, et ratio est, quia humor qua prava qualitate afficitur, quo copiosior accumulatur in corpore tanto maiores vires nocendi [illegible] acquirit, at in ultimis mensibus [illegible] [illegible] et magna copia [illegible] sanguineae pravus sit aggregatum quam primis mensibus. ergo eo tempore magis deberet nocere, quod tamen non observatur fieri in ipsis Gynadibus. immo [illegible] solent haec in primis quam in ultimis mensibus. possent alias

Considerabamus sanguinem menstruum dupliciter posse considerari.

Constituto sit duo esse ex quibus nostra fiunt semen viri et menstruus sanguis materna semen autem dicit: ut clarius videas quae non duo sint, semen ad generationem concurrit cum in. [illegible] utrumque quae generationem ex materia et forma semper constet, hinc fit ut duo concurrentia principia quae ad generationem sufficient generare debeant, ut formalia et materialia, ac proinde ex causa dicendum est utrumque haec principia concurrere tanquam forma et tanquam materia solo ergo ex sola forma aut ex sola materia nihil fit quare haec utraque formalia et materialia esse non potest, quare si alterum erit forma le principium alterum materiale, quare autem sit formale et quare materiale constitutio eorum semen viri formam constituere, menstruum vero sanguinem ut materiam, formam accidentem recipere ac principium materiale ad formam verum in quo dissentiunt hoc est an semen ita sit principium formale et efficiens, ut in generatione officium suum eadem habeat, nullo prorsus materiae, sanguis vero menstruus ita sit principium materiale et passivum ut nullo prorsus formae aliquid sit [illegible], an vero semen ita sit formale principium ut simul generet ut mole et pars menstruus sanguis ita sit principium materiale ut generet et aliquando ut formale. Si Aristotelem sequamur statuendum erit marem concurrere ad generationem ut [illegible] et efficientem tantum et consequenter active solum, feminam vero generare materiam et passive solum suscipiendo [illegible] viri a mare a femine ad [illegible] eyede. Stante veritate vero Aristotelis opinionem sit de generatione animalium cap. ult. et lib. de generatione animalium, ubi inquit in generatione semen eo modo concurrere active et efficienter concurrendo solam formam, sanguinem vero menstruum passive concurrendo solam materiam et corpus, Comparat: coagulum [illegible] principium coherendi principium [illegible] concurrat, lac vero vim coaguli recipiens [illegible] et casei formam recipit, ita ut caseus a coagulo formam recipiat tanquam ab eo de a [illegible] vero corpus habeat, a semine informante foetus semen instar coaguli ad [illegible] sanguini menstruo adveniens [illegible] formam foetus, sanguis vero menstruus erudit [illegible] et materiam recipiens talem formam, quia extra aliud corpus componit sed illo de grade alio 5. dicitur quod vult sapiens, volens quod similiter lignum terrae et ligno fit flamma, ita quod formale viri et menstruo sanguini ac formale foetus, ita ut simili comparatione videmus ut aliquis componens ipsi ligno lapides nave formam ipsius sed semini ita semen viri adveniens menstruo sanguini exhibet formam, lignum vero non exhibebit: sed tamen potest aequari ab [illegible] quia si [illegible] ita est [illegible] actuum, ut solum [illegible] formam et speciem ipsi menstruo quae sunt spermaticae, cum semen in colore sit album indiciis manifes-semen vero album, illud non patitur extensionem citra continui solutio-similes, similes vero sunt parentibus et antecessoribus, et quamquam fuerit similitudinum et dissimilitudinum individualium eorum, quae sunt in una et eadem radice in uno et eodem agente quod est tum in mare tum in foemina, scilicet semina et initia generandi non marem non foeminam, distinctio autem et separatio maris et foeminae pendent non ex radice, non ex foeminae similitudine et humiditate non ex facultate formatrice, quae eadem est in utroque parente, sed ex superveniente multitudine, quae oritur tum ex mixtura aliorum, tum ex com[illegible] priorum corporis, unde ex una ista corporea recipiens impressionem agentis et formatricis facultatis, non ex [illegible] agens data ut [illegible] [illegible] et foemina, ac fiunt in eadem vitalis fluidi in eadem facultate formatrice, non solum maris et foeminae discremilitudinis individualis, quae consistit in conformatione corporis secundum quod est [illegible] mam illius corporis talis a quo haec una decisa est, neque ipsius tione maioris et nova succedunt. Unde quod nati sunt alter filius parentibus. Hinc licet reddere causam cur quod adulte-rino semine candidae et Aethiopis nata sit filia candida, quae quod nupta viro albo genuit Aethiopem similem patri [illegible] de qua alibi 18 nam quia virilis genitura [illegible], validior et maioris constantiae [illegible] in ipsa similitudine alterius et cum prioris [illegible] advenerit ex parte matris quam patris, eam ob causam filia candida nata fuit ex ipso Aethiope, quare [illegible] filia genuit Aethiopem quia illius semen formale et spirituale [illegible] remansit tum tandem quod constat ex materiali semine viri et sanguine men-struo foeminae superavit semini mariti, quod servata fuit in ipso [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] et [illegible] corporis [illegible] et ideo natus fuit Aethiops, [illegible] [illegible] avum suum et
